DEMOCRATS LAUNCH CHICAGO CONVENTION

Electors In Two Dominion Ridings Go To The Polls

People of Maisonneuve, Que., and Royal, N.B., Deciding To-day Who Will Represent Them in House of Commons

Dominion by-elections to-day: Maisonneuve, on the Island of Montreal.
Royal, New Brunswick.

Canadian Press
Montreal, June 27.—Electors flocked to the polls to-day to settle the Parliamentary representation of Maisonneuve division which, since it was formed in 1896, has returned only Liberal and Labor members of Parliament.

Five candidates to-day were seeking the seat left vacant when Clement R. Bissell, Liberal, died in January. They are: Joseph Jean, K.C., Liberal; Jean Fautoux, Conservative; Heliodore Binette, Canadian Labor Party; Alexander Gauld, Socialist; and D. Courchesne, Independent Liberal.

The fight generally was regarded as between Jean Fautoux and Binette.

ROYAL CONTEST
Sussex, N.B., June 27.—Electors of Royal went to the polls to-day to name a representative for the vacant seat in the Commons. The contest was a straight party fight between Donald V. White, Liberal, and Hon. George B. Jones, Conservative, who resigned the seat last April under a provision of the House of Commons Act.

The Imperial Economic Conference to be held at Ottawa in July and August was an outstanding point of issue during the closing days of the by-election campaign. The subject was introduced here last week by Rt. Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King, Liberal leader, who said the conference would fail if the Bennett Government maintained its trade and tariff policies.

The criticism offered by Mr. King was judged to have found a mark, for addressing a Conservative meeting here Saturday evening, Hon. R. J. Macdonald, Minister of Railways and Canals, read the following telegram he said he had received from Premier Bennett:

PARTY WANTS KAISER BACK

German Nationalists Declare For Monarchy; Chancellor Makes Peace Appeal

Associated Press
Berlin, June 27.—Return of the Hohenzollerns to the throne of Germany was called for to-day by the Nationalist Party.

Restoration of the former Kaiser was proposed yesterday at a caucus of Nationalist Party leaders by Alfred Hugenberg, Nationalist leader, who declared the Nationalists favored a return to the monarchy.

A personal appeal that Adolf Hitler restrain his long-cherished National Socialist (Fascist) for the sake of Germany's negotiations at Lausanne reparations conference was reported to-day to have been made yesterday by Chancellor Franz von Papen as political clashes took four more lives in the Reich.

A secret meeting of the Chancellor with the German Fascist leader, in the presence of Gen. Kurt von Schleicher, defense minister, and Baron Wilhelm von Gayl, Minister of the Interior, was reported from various sources.

Whether the fiery Hitler agreed to the supposed proposal had not been divulged to-day.

TALKS WITH PRESIDENT
Chancellor von Papen also saw President Paul von Hindenburg again after reporting to him Saturday. Apparently there was much dissatisfaction among supporters of the federal government over interviews with foreign correspondents attributed to the Chancellor at Lausanne and misgivings had reached the ears of the President.

PAPEN AND REPARATIONS
Chancellor von Papen was bitterly attacked in the German Nationalist newspapers for an interview in which he was quoted as having said: "I am among the first to admit the claim of France to compensation in connection with the liquidation of reparations."

Resenting the Nationalist press attack, Chancellor von Papen asserted he had been misunderstood.

"I emphasized the recovery of the world's economy demands co-operative efforts, especially between Germany and France—a co-operation from which France would obtain better and more evident advantages than by a continuance of reparations payments," he said.

RUN ON RESERVES
"Germany's incapacity to pay was caused not by Germany, but by the run on our capital reserves, the closing of the national channels of credit and the tariff walls erected by each country."

"If, therefore, the world's economy is to be brought into order, one must not rest content with removing political tributes and payments, but must envisage constructive measures. Germany is ready to contribute within her powers to put their houses in order on such a basis would make the best kind"

FINE COURSE FOR OARSMEN

Elk Lake, Scene of N.P.A.A.O. Regatta This Week-end, Ideal Location

Accommodation For Crowd of 5,000; Straightaway Course Best in Province

When oarsmen from Victoria, Vancouver, Kelowna and Brentwood College gather at Elk Lake on Friday and Saturday for the thirty-sixth annual regatta of the North Pacific Association of Amateur Oarsmen, they will race over what is considered the finest course of its kind in British Columbia. This popular lake resort, within fifteen minutes' drive of the city, provides an ideal spot for the regatta and thousands of Victorians are expected to watch the crews battle for Coast supremacy.

The course, measuring one mile and 550 yards, the standard Henley course, extends from a point at the entrance to Beaver Lake to the northern end of the lake, at the old site of the Elk Lake Athletic Club. It is a straightaway course and spectators will be able to witness the start of the race and the finish and the boats will be in view throughout the entire race.

The course is good and wide at all points, and measures 450 yards across at the finishing line at the north end. The inside will be marked by buoys with flags so that none of the crews will get off their courses. A second survey of the course was made last week and both the outside and inside lanes measure exactly the same length, giving no crew an advantage.

The shells will make an anchored start, eliminating any dissention on the part of any crew that they did not get an even break.

BOATHOUSE, ERECTED
At the finish line a fine boathouse has been constructed for the housing of the shells. The boats of the N.P.A.A. are already there, and there is

Dollar Slightly Up on Exchange

New York, June 27.—Canadian and British currencies exhibited a firm trend at the close of the local foreign exchange market to-day.

The Canadian dollar was quoted at 87½ cents, up ½ cent on the day's trading. The pound sterling was $3.61½, down ¼ cent on Saturday's close, but at the highest point of to-day's trading.

Irish Name Their Delegates To Ottawa

O'Kelly, Lemass and Ryan to Speak For Free State at Empire Economic Conference

Canadian Press
Ottawa, June 27.—Sean T. O'Kelly, vice-president of the Executive Council of the Irish Free State, will head his country's delegation to the Imperial Economic Conference in Ottawa.

Sean Lemass, Minister of Industry and Commerce, and James Ryan, Minister of Agriculture, will be the two other official representatives of the Irish Free State. Official advice to this effect was received here by cable. A staff of twenty-three, including advisers, will accompany the Irish Free State ministers. Intimation of his inability to be present personally at the conference was given in Dublin by President Eamon de Valera Saturday.

NEWFOUNDLAND'S POSITION
With the announcement of the personnel of the Irish Free State delegation, Newfoundland is the only dominion which has not nominated its official representatives to the Empire gathering. The situation is entirely due to the general election in the old British colony about ten days ago. Expectations are that Premier-elect F. C. Alderdice will lead the delegation. Names of the Newfoundland representatives probably will be received in Ottawa as soon as Mr. Alderdice, who heads the United Party, forms his cabinet.

Preparations for the conference are being rapidly completed. Meetings of various subcommittees are being held daily to have all details in readiness in ample time for the opening of the party July 21.

A. A. Wescott of H.M.C.S. Skeena Succumbs to Injuries Sustained in Collision Saturday Night; W. Napier, Shipmate, Has Ankle Fractured; Funeral To-morrow

C. E. Dickinson, California Pilot, Brings Plane Down Among Nanaimo Golfers

Special to The Times
Nanaimo, June 27.—Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Dickinson, Palo Alto, California, tourists, made a bumpy landing on the local golf course in their four-passenger cabin plane, here yesterday, narrowly escaping damage, and scattering a foursome with signals from the air. They were under the impression that a landing place was under construction on the course. Nanaimo customs had their first registration of aerial tourists when Dickinson presented his permit in compliance with the regulations.

Allister Albert Wescott, aged twenty-one, of the H.M.C.S. Skeena, died in the St. Joseph's Hospital at 3 o'clock Sunday morning from injuries sustained in a collision between his motorcycle and an automobile at Langford lake Saturday night. William L. K. Napier, a shipmate who was riding with him, is in hospital with a fractured ankle and severe cuts and bruises.

A naval funeral for Mr. Wescott will be held from St. Paul's Garrison Church at Esquimalt to-morrow morning at 9 o'clock, interment being in the road leading to the cemetery. The inquest was set for 4 o'clock this afternoon at Sands Mortuary.

The tragedy occurred Saturday night about 8:30 o'clock, according to the provincial police report. Mr. Wescott's motorcycle colliding with a car driven by Owen W. Smith, 1720 Beach Drive, on a turn in the Island Highway at Langford.

RETURNING TO CITY
Wescott and Napier, riding on a machine which Wescott had purchased recently, went for a pleasure ride up the Malahat and were returning when the accident occurred. Mr. Smith, a musician on his way to Langford, has just turned the corner in the road leading to the lake.

As the motorcycle made the turn on to the stretch approaching Mr. Smith's car, the driver attempted to change into second gear, the police were informed. Apparently he had some difficulties with the gears and lost control of the machine.

It headed toward Mr. Smith's car. Mr. Smith, sensing the impending crash, swung off to the gravel on the right side of the road, but the motorcycle side-swiped his car.

Both men were flung from the motorcycle. Mr. Wescott landing on his head. Mr. Napier, riding in the rear, had his ankle snapped by the impact, but was more fortunate in falling.

CAR DAMAGED
None of the occupants of the automobile was injured, although the windshield was smashed and a rear wheel snapped.

Constable Thomas Flinder, of the provincial police, on patrol duty, was on the scene shortly afterwards. The C. & C. ambulance took the injured men to the hospital, and Dr. J. D. Hunter, R.C.N., and Dr. J. H. Moore, undertook a hopeless fight to save the life of Mr. Wescott. His injuries were too serious, however.

Sub-inspector Robert Owens and Sgt. Richard Harvey also went to the scene for the police.

Mr. Wescott's parent reside in Vancouver.

GORGOLOFF TRIAL
Paris, June 27.—Dr. Paul Gorgoloff, who assassinated President Paul Doumer, probably will be placed on trial July 21, it is stated.

GAS DEALERS MEET TO-DAY

Price War in City Creates Ill-feeling and Station Operators Worried

Compromise Sought By Dealers' Committee But No Agreement Reached

Failure of a dealers' committee to reach a settlement with the price cutters this morning resulted in a meeting of gasoline retailers being called for this afternoon to discuss the price war started Saturday by two independents.

A huge volume of business enjoyed by the price-cutters, coupled with a natural falling off in sales at other stations where the regular prices were maintained prompted the negotiations. Operators of service stations which have not reduced the rates face a serious situation if some agreement is not reached, they stated.

At the station where gasoline was sold at twenty-nine cents a gallon over the week-end a capacity business was done and their pumps were emptied Sunday since the tank wagons do not fill pumps on the Sabbath. When they were filled up again this morning the volume of sales continued.

CUTTERS STAND PAT
Two dealers' representatives interviewed this morning said they were in a compromise but no agreement was made. Viewing the price reduction as a move to get more cars on the road and swell traffic, the cutters stood pat on their decision to give cheaper gas. They are selling on a two-cent profit margin instead of five cents which is taken by other dealers.

Service station operators viewed the war to-day with considerable alarm in view of the fact that the price reducers were set to be in a position to hold out indefinitely. Some stated that if all dealers were forced to cut to the twenty-nine-cent level to meet the competition, it would result in a number of station helpers being

MAN ARRESTED AFTER BATTLE

Police Say Prisoner Held in Buffalo Wanted on Robbery Charges in Canada

Associated Press
Buffalo, N.Y., June 27.—Canadian detectives were expected here to-day to leave here to-day for Buffalo in an effort to identify R. L. Rideout, arrested in Buffalo, as a suspect in the robbery of the branch of the Bank of Montreal at Ste. Anne de Bellevue, Que., last August.

Armed with a bogus letter of identification as a bank inspector, a man gained access to the teller's cage of the bank at Ste. Anne de Bellevue, carefully counted out $8,000 in cash and left with the money.

Canadian Press
Welland, Ont., June 27.—Sought in connection with three daring bank robberies in different parts of Canada, a man police claim is Ronald L. Rideout, to-day was held under close guard in the Supreme Court of Manitoba by A. B. Hudson, K.C., on behalf of the Gillespie Terminal Grain Company of Fort William, Ont.

Hearing of the application was set over till early in July.

In a statement attached to the application the grain company said a judgment for $75,000 against the wheat pool had "not been satisfied."

Plans Two-way Atlantic Flight

First round-trip plane crossing of the Atlantic will be attempted by Lieut. Robert S. Fogg of New England, who is planning to carry out. He has plotted a route from New York to London with stops in Nova Scotia, Labrador, Greenland, Iceland and Scotland. Pilot Fogg's primary purpose is to make an aerial survey of the little known route and to take the first motion pictures of the Greenland ice cap and the volcanoes of Iceland. He has a number of relief flights to his credit.

Commander Evangeline Booth of the Salvation Army, Gen. Outram, who opened a convention with prayer. Then the wise Democrats, realizing few delegates knew the words to the "Star-spangled Banner" heard Mrs. Rose Zuluaga, New Englander, chant the national air. National committee man Isadore Dockweiler of California read Jefferson's first inaugural address, and Senator Barkley roared the Republicans.

MUCH YET CONCEALED
While the assembly was launched with oratory, to-day did not see the swirl and struggle of intra-party forces brought into the open at the convention.

Along Michigan Boulevard, everyone prayed like Michigan would send cooling breezes—in the big hotels, loud-crying demands, threats, whispers and cajolings were being used to stop Roosevelt and to bring delegates into line behind Roosevelt and his convention programme, which includes the election as permanent chairman of Senator Thomas J. Walsh instead of Joseph P. Kamp of California.

Shouse is fighting desperately for his "promised" job. The Rooseveltians, who yesterday were over-confident of their power to weaken their candidate, yet the recalcitrance of delegates on this point threatens their whole position. Graceful withdrawal is impossible. A defeat would admittedly make it difficult for Governor Roosevelt to obtain the two-thirds endorsement still almost within his grasp.

DESERTED SMITH
Leading opponents of the New York governor yesterday coldly deserted the ex-governor of New York and ex-presidential candidate, Al Smith, and today were under the leadership of Senator James A. Reed of Missouri, and Melvin A. Traylor of Chicago, the banker. Mr. Traylor, holding the entire vote of Illinois on the first ballot, is making some use of Smith ammunition in calling on the Democrats to accept defeat rather than win on any demagogic appeal setting class against class. Al Smith called Roosevelt a demagogue. It may well be the forces of the New York governor will trot out the old bugaboo of radicalism to frighten the delegates from their help apparent's band wagon.

NEW MOVE FOR TRADE WITH NATIONS URGED

Canadian Press and Associated Press Dispatches

Chicago, June 27.—A couple of raps from a gavel in the hand of Senator Alden W. Barkley of Kentucky and the Democratic National Convention of 1932, seemingly certain to nominate Franklin D. Roosevelt for the presidency and go damp, was off to-day in a maelstrom of oratory.

A part of the keynote speech of Senator A. W. Barkley of Kentucky of interest to Canadians was the section dealing the tariff. He proposed that the Democrats, if returned to power, should solve the tariff problem by inaugurating friendly international conferences with a view to re-opening normal trade channels in the world, and make the tariff commission a fact-finding body for Congress.

"In all the generations of American history," he said, "the people in every great crisis have turned to the Democratic Party to lead them from the wilderness of disappointment and disaster."

He promised the Democrats would "abolish every useless office, and every unnecessary bureau and commission" in the federal field of the United States.

A biting attack on Republican rule through three administrations and a plea for a vote on repeal of the 18th amendment were made by Senator Barkley.

Electors of Two Dominion Ridings Go to the Polls

"Have just returned and have read with interest report of Mr. King's speech Thursday evening at Sussex. In effect, he asked the electors of Royal to vote against the government so that he may be in a position to say the country is opposed to our proceeding with the Imperial Economic Conference which, from the standing of the delegates and the interest taken in the proceedings in every part of the world, is rightly regarded as the most important gathering of its kind ever held in the British Empire. Through the efforts of the government, the conference will meet in Ottawa. I trust you will stress the responsibility which the electors of Royal and ask them whether or not they are prepared to weaken the influence of Canada at the conference by voting want of confidence in the government which has made possible the gathering, which offers Canada the greatest opportunity we have ever had for securing some form of trade stability within the empire and stimulating world movement toward normal conditions. Please tell my New Brunswick friends I rely on them for a decisive victory on Monday next and the triumphant return of George Jones to his place in the House of Commons."

"I appeal to you not to do something which, on the eve of this great conference, would be a slap in the face for Mr. Bennett."

Hon. Murray MacLaren, Minister of Pensions and National Health, and Mr. Jones, Conservative candidate, also addressed the meeting.

Hon. G. B. Jones resigned the Royal seat April 12 last, because it had come to his attention his firm had filled orders for relief supplies for destitute Indians on orders of the Indian medical director.

CLOSING SPEECHES
Canadian Press
Montreal, June 27.—Government must come down to terms of human values, human dignity. They are worth more than money values, declared J. S. Woodsworth, M.P. for Winnipeg North Centre, in appealing to the audience for the election of Heliodore Blinnette, Labor candidate, in the federal by-election to-day.

There was "dire need" for social reconstruction in Canada, Mr. Woodsworth said. He urged the people to think of "the horrors of the present system," affirming Canadians had become mere "slaves of wood and drawers of water for people who have a first mortgage on the wealth of Canada."

At the next federal election, Mr. Woodsworth went on, "you will possibly see a new third party—the United Farmer and Labor Party—in the field, voicing the sentiment of justice and social and economic reconstruction." Within a few weeks, he said, the Labor Party and the independent farmers' group in the west would meet in conference and seek a new co-operation, if not unity.

Mr. Blinnette is one of five candidates in the contest in Maisonneuve. CONSERVATIVES SPEAK
The Dominion Government had increased the national debt to prevent some of the provinces going into bankruptcy, declared Hon. Arthur Meighen, Postmaster-General, in a by-election speech yesterday evening in support of Jean Fautoux, K.C., the Conservative candidate in Maisonneuve. Mr. Fautoux said he was answering criticisms of Hon. Ernest Lapointe, former Liberal Minister of Justice.

Hon. Alfred Durneau, Minister of Marine, asked the electors to return Mr. Fautoux on the record of the Conservative Party since it took power twenty-two months ago. He welcomed the comparison of its achievements with those of previous Liberal governments.

plenty of space for the boats of the other crew. It is a roomy structure and will be permanent. Many complimentary remarks have been passed regarding the boathouse, which was erected through the co-operation of the Victoria-Spanish Beaches and Parks Committee.

Officials of the J.B.A.A. under whose auspices the regatta is being staged, have arranged to have a grandstand erected at the finishing line. The stand will hold about 400 people and will give the spectators a fine view of the races. There will be plenty of room for spectators, and officials figure they can accommodate a crowd of 5,000. There is plenty of parking space for cars.

The races will start at 2.30 o'clock on Friday and Saturday, with half an hour between each event. The junior events are slated for Friday with the senior races the second day.

Arrangements have been made with the Vancouver Island Coach Lines to operate a bus service to the regatta on the two days. The coaches will leave frequently so that citizens will experience no trouble getting to and from the regatta.

The grand finals of the regatta will take place at the Shrine Hall on Saturday night at 9 o'clock when Mayor Leeming, a former secretary of the J.B.A.A., will present the prizes.

ITALY'S VIEWS
Dino Grandi, Italian Foreign Minister, set forth the Italian policy in a letter to Premier MacDonald, chairman of the conference, and in its main points this is in agreement with the British stand. "The highlights are:

(1) Italy favors a clean slate.
(2) Compared with her war losses, Italy has received from Germany less than other nations.
(3) Cancellation must be applied to all.
(4) Final settlement of reparations will be a natural consequence of final settlement of war debts.

case a lone bandit carried out the theft, acting coolly, calmly and methodically.

DESCRIPTION SENT OUT
Basis for the belief the man held in Buffalo was Riedoux lay in a description sent to police in Toronto, Winnipeg and other cities. A. J. Murray, Toronto inspector of detectives, claimed the description tallied with that of Riedoux.

The lone bandit, who took $2,800 from a bank of Toronto branch in London a year ago, escaped by airplane to Toronto. Police rushed to a Toronto flying field, but the wanted man chose another airport and left it on foot, vanishing completely.

The Ste. Anne de Bellevue hold-up netted the bandit about $8,000. It was carried out in August, 1931.

WINNIPEG ROBBERY
Half an hour after closing time on the afternoon of June 16 last a lone bandit walked into the Royal Bank branch at Osborne and Corydon Streets in Winnipeg, held up four employees, whom he bound and gagged, brushed all the cash in sight, about $8,000, into a brief case and left in a taxicab he had ordered to be there.

The youthful stickler had no difficulty gaining entry since he had the week before become acquainted with the staff by posing as a loan investigator.

While he collected the cash he chatted with the bound staff, urging the men to take a good look at him in case they should see him again. "I'm robbing the bank under his nose," he remarked as he noticed a policeman on traffic duty across the street.

Cabinet to Meet Committee From B.C. Municipal Union

Canadian Press
Nelson, B.C., June 27.—That he would be pleased to meet a committee from the Union of B.C. Municipalities this week was the answer of Hon. J. W. Jones, Finance Minister of B.C., to the wire sent him Saturday evening from the convention here, asking him to delay action on the question of closing relief camps and replacing them with soup kitchens, until the union's representative could meet the cabinet committee.

The minister's wire was read to the convention here this afternoon as follows: "Your telegram, twenty-fifth instant, has been received. It is a financial situation must be regarded. Relief costs must be immediately reduced. Will expect closest co-operation by municipalities. Unless taken in hand now, impossible situation this winter. Our policy must be to prepare for that period. Cannot commit government beyond available means. Municipalities must co-operate with industrial and agricultural interests to find work for balance of year. Will be pleased to hear your committee this week."

WANT MORE INFORMATION
Mayor E. H. Bridgman of North Vancouver suggested the minister's answer was non-committal on the main point, and asked if Hon. Joshua Hinchliffe, Minister of Education, here to address the convention, could do anything.

Mr. Hinchliffe said he could promise that before any general policy was adopted the cabinet would be glad to hear the union's committee. He stated the government had received a wire from Ottawa giving the general outlines of what the Dominion was prepared to do, but had not yet received the actual proposed agreement. He said the government would undoubtedly like to have the representatives of the municipalities sit in on the discussion of these details, when they were available, so it would be known if they were such as the municipalities could co-operate in.

RESOLUTIONS
The convention made a start with the resolutions sent in by the municipalities, and this afternoon the three special committees on unemployment, social service burden and school costs were expected to report on their respective recommendations, which will bring up the three big questions of this year's gathering.

LOGGERS FOUND DEAD IN SHACK
Harry H. Hunland Discovered Shot to Death Near Mill at Shawanigan Lake
Inquest Being Held at Duncan To-day; Was Known in Victoria

Special to The Times
Duncan, June 27.—An inquest is being held to-day to determine the nature of the death of Harry H. Hunland, fifty, Norwegian logger, who was found shot to death on Saturday in a shack on the logging site at Shawanigan Lake. The body was brought here for the coroner's inquest, which is being held this evening.

Hunland was well-known in Victoria, having resided there, and he had been here searching for work, but had been unsuccessful. He had been in poor health, and had gone to Shawanigan Lake from here. He was said to have been one of the best loggers on the island.

INSPECT MILL AT CHEMAINUS
Cheminus, June 27.—Continuing their close examination of this province's natural resources, thirty-two members of the British Columbia inspection tour party from the British Isles, touring B.C. under direct provincial government auspices, to-day inspected the sawmill of the Victoria Lumber and Manufacturing Company here.

The Cheminus mills are among the leaders in the world's export lumber trade, and here Vancouver Island's huge cedar and Douglas fir are manufactured into lumber for use in all parts of the world. Lumbering, one of British Columbia's leading industries, has been closely studied by the British tour since they reached the province, June 14. Moving on northward, the British party reached Qualicum Beach Hotel at Qualicum and will make their headquarters for two days.

case a lone bandit carried out the theft, acting coolly, calmly and methodically.

DESCRIPTION SENT OUT
Basis for the belief the man held in Buffalo was Riedoux lay in a description sent to police in Toronto, Winnipeg and other cities. A. J. Murray, Toronto inspector of detectives, claimed the description tallied with that of Riedoux.

The lone bandit, who took $2,800 from a bank of Toronto branch in London a year ago, escaped by airplane to Toronto. Police rushed to a Toronto flying field, but the wanted man chose another airport and left it on foot, vanishing completely.

The Ste. Anne de Bellevue hold-up netted the bandit about $8,000. It was carried out in August, 1931.

WINNIPEG ROBBERY
Half an hour after closing time on the afternoon of June 16 last a lone bandit walked into the Royal Bank branch at Osborne and Corydon Streets in Winnipeg, held up four employees, whom he bound and gagged, brushed all the cash in sight, about $8,000, into a brief case and left in a taxicab he had ordered to be there.

The youthful stickler had no difficulty gaining entry since he had the week before become acquainted with the staff by posing as a loan investigator.

While he collected the cash he chatted with the bound staff, urging the men to take a good look at him in case they should see him again. "I'm robbing the bank under his nose," he remarked as he noticed a policeman on traffic duty across the street.

On his way down town he passed two crowded police cars going to the scene of the hold-up. The cab driver suggested there must have been a bank robbery. "No," answered the bandit casually. "All banks are closed at this hour."

Floor Cleaning
To clean a wood floor that has been shelled, use a cloth and gasoline. If there are any bloodstains or marks on the floor, put a little gasoline on them and rub with very fine steel wool. Do not rub too hard or the steel will cut through the shell.

PIANO PUPILS IN FINE PROGRAMME
Pupils of Reginald Cox held an enjoyable recital in the Bishop's College Hall Friday evening, assisted by Mrs. E. Hanks and Miss Isabelle Pike, vocal pupils of Miss Kate McGregor. Miss Grace Allan was the able accompanist. Those taking part in the excellent programme were: Betty Sheratt, Netta Hunter, Mary McWilliam, Kathleen McKierahan, Eric Anderson, Doris Fox, Eleanor Campbell, Darrell Hughes, Thelma Davidson, Alice MacKenzie, Phyllis Waters, Gwen Evans, Colleen Miller, Isabel and Alex Ord, Kathleen Knott, Lucy Huxley, Margaret McConnell, Helen Robinson, Pauline Mercer, Robert Jameson, Bernice Miller, Edna Anderson, Dorothy Sherratt, Margaret Jones, Alex Ord, Jane Goldwell, Edgar Mercer, Margaret Bearse, Myra Cliphant, Harold Hibbs, Robert McConnell, Ruth Lewis, Eleanor Walker, Dorothy Wood, Hubert Linnell, Fred Gray and Robert Taylor.

Democrats Launch Chicago Convention

ing the Harding administration the "darkest chapter of public betrayal in the history of this or any other nation." He heaped blame on former President Calvin Coolidge and former Secretary of the Treasury Andrew Mellon for an "org of speculation and inflation that had no foundation in real values," and termed the Republican plank on prohibition "a promiscuous conglomeration of scrap lumber."

PROHIBITION VOTE
The keynote urged the convention recommend the passage by Congress of a resolution submitting repeal of the 18th amendment for ratification by the people through state conventions whose delegates should be chosen on that issue alone.

The history of the stock market boom was recounted and blame for the collapse was placed on the leaders at the helm of the nation.

He bespoke enactment of laws providing for co-operative agencies through which the farmers might work out their own problems over a period of years, along with a recommendation to take the government out of "the dubious adventure of speculation" in farm products, and installation of the "Federal Farm Loan Board" to ensure more direct contact with commercial banks and borrowers.

FIRST AID
He ridiculed "fine spun" distinctions between local and national responsibility on unemployment and deplored the "sophomoric dispute over the identity of first aid," while the nation's "defendants and dependents suffer from want and neglect."

The keynote advocated consideration of the five-day week or the six-day week, a possible solution of employment problems growing out of the country's industrial advances.

FARLEY'S PREDICTION
Sitting on a table at Roosevelt headquarters yesterday evening James A. Farley, campaign manager, announced, "Beginning with the election of the first ballot, we will carry through our entire programme, we have the votes."

A hundred newspapermen, perspiring in the heat of the air, banded distributed by tiny electric fans, copied down his words. Outside a band blared, "The Old Gray Mare, she Ain't What She Used to Be."

Beginning with the release of the Illinois delegation, pledged to their favorite son, Senator James Hamilton Lewis, the last forty-eight hours had been a whirl of activity. Farley, who had been in the Roosevelt standard, opposition headquarters gave him better than 600 votes and unbiased observers 700. By all calculations it was said he should have no difficulty in collecting another 700 to get two-thirds.

CONTESTS FORESEEN
Chicago, June 27.—Cheering and demonstrating as its orators lambasted the Republicans and asked for prohibition, the National Democratic Convention began to-day with a session peaceful enough on the surface, but encircled with a tightening ring of controversy.

As far as could be learned this morning only two operators were selling at the twenty-nine-cent level and one at thirty. All others were at the regular price.

Japanese Cabinet Finds Hoover Arms Cut Proposal Unacceptable
Declaring that comment in detail on the various points of the Hoover proposals would be premature while the statementmen were still studying them, Gen. Araki said it was his personal opinion, however, that it would be "exceedingly difficult to abolish" tanks, large mobile guns and bombing planes.

The general pointed out such weapons constituted a vital element of the defence of many nations to-day. "I remember their abolition was previously proposed and always vigorously opposed by some power," he said. "It is extremely difficult to decide the rights and wrongs of the use of such weapons."

IN MANCHURIA
Gen. Araki denied the important role of air bombers in the present Manchurian campaign would determine Japan's final decision about such weapons.

"The Japanese army is trying to restore peace and order in Manchuria with as little as possible of the horrors of war," the general said.

The leaders of Japan's army believe there is no choice but military measures when the lives and property interests of Japanese are threatened by lawless elements.

Our armaments must be limited only by such necessity. Nevertheless, we hope to make our contribution to world peace by methods which are fair to all parties and which are reasonable in degrees."

BIG THROG AT CHURCH EVENT

Estimated 1,000,000 Persons Attended Congress Mass in Dublin Yesterday

Dublin, June 27.—Several hundred thousand Roman Catholics from all parts of the world, were on their way home to-day from the thirty-first Eucharistic Congress, which closed here yesterday with a blessing from Pope Pius, broadcast from Vatican City.

A million members of the church heard the Pope's words of blessing, broadcast by loud speakers over the heads of the great throng massed before an altar on O'Connell Bridge in the heart of the city.

It was believed here to have been the greatest congregation Christendom has known. The benediction followed a solemn pontifical mass and a great religious procession ten miles long.

POPE'S WORDS
Speaking from his own broadcasting station in Vatican City, the Pope said: "In the name of the Father, the Son and the Holy Ghost, amen."

"Most beloved sons of Christ, I am with you. First of all, I am with you as a father with his exulting sons in order to have not only by means of the blessed sacrament, but also by myself a certain participation in your Eucharistic joy and triumph."

"Therefore, we together with you, supplicate and pray in order that Almighty and Merciful God, placated by the prayers of His church, graciously concede in such great tribulation of all peoples the gifts of union and peace, gifts which are in fact, indicated in the mystery of the eucharist."

"Finally, let our hearts and our lips open to you to express to you our congratulations and impart to you with very special affection our apostolic benediction."

GREAT SILENCE
As the celebrant of the mass in Phoenix Park raised the Host at the central moment of the ceremony, the crowd bowed in a profound silence, disturbed only by the cry of "viva" and the click of sabres as the guard of honor came to the salute before the great altar.

The million people sang and prayed as one as a result of the elaborate system of loudspeakers. The arrangements went astray only at the end when the Pope's voice, broadcasting his benediction, was lost in the drowning of an airplane.

At the conclusion of the ceremony in Phoenix Park, the procession started toward the city, where benediction was to be given, but as the line of followers behind the pope's legate, borne kneeling on his knees, swayed in the wind, the crowd broke into sections and the last ceremony held at an improvised altar at O'Connell Bridge.

Into the city, heavy and sultry with the heat, crowds had come from all parts of Ireland to join the pilgrims from other lands for the final day of the congress. Twenty thousand reached here at dawn and later sixty trains brought visitors from Northern Ireland, who arrived safely after a rough passage through some northern railway stations.

The solemn mass which marked the last day's devotion was sung by Most Rev. Michael Curley, Archbishop of Baltimore. A picked choir sang the responses and the hymn "Praise Anthem," was rendered by John McCormack, wearing the red uniform of a papal choir.

Cardinal Lauri, papal delegate, presided at the ceremony, surrounded by cardinals with their trains.

A huge space before the flanking colonnades was filled by priests and members of the monastic orders, the black robes of the Dominicans contrasting with the brown of the Franciscans. Governor-General McNair, in plain morning dress, was on one side; President de Valera and his ministers on the other. Purple-robed bishops filled the entire space under the colonnades. The Lord Mayor of Dublin and the mayors of other towns were in full civic state. The Knights of Malta in their picturesque dress, were there.

LIMIT DEBATE ON CONFERENCE

Canadian Press
Sherbrooke, Que., June 27.—Approach to the Ottawa Imperial Economic Conference with an open mind and in a spirit of mutual co-operation as against official forecast of the stand to be adopted by the Canadian Government was thought by federal authorities to be the wiser course.

This statement by Hon. H. H. Stevens prefaced a general discussion of Canadian trade problems by the Minister of Trade and Commerce in a speech to the guests at a complimentary dinner tendered him here Saturday by the Sherbrooke Chamber of Commerce.

"The government has purposely and deliberately refrained from declaring its policy," Mr. Stevens said, "because any such declaration on the eve of the Empire assembly would precipitate unnecessary, not to say harmful, discussion of what would probably transpire when the nations of the British Commonwealth met."

THREE DROWNED

Windsor, Ont., June 27 (Canadian Press).—Drownings took a toll of three lives in the Border Cities district over the week-end. Caught by currents while swimming, Thomas Prokaw, twenty-three, Grosse Ile, and Marrian Hamburg, eighteen, Windsor, were drowned in Livingstone Channel, near Amherstburg.

Nine-year-old Thomas Graham of Belle River was drowned when he slipped into the water in a dredge cut near his home.

GIRL DROWNED

Maldstone, Sask., June 27.—Stepping into a deep hole while wading in Maldstone Lake yesterday afternoon, Lorna McConnell, eighteen, sank from sight and drowned before assistance could reach her. She was unable to swim.

EIGHTEEN LOSE LIVES IN FLOOD

Bucharest, Roumania, June 27.—Eighteen persons, including several women and children, were drowned today when a heavy cloudburst swelled the rivers in the provinces of Dukovina and Moldavia, washed away a number of houses and tore out railway lines.

AGED SCIENTIST'S DEATH MOURNED

Canadian Press
Chester, N.S., June 27.—The body of Dr. William White, Jacques will be buried at Brookline, Mass. The remains were sent by way of Yarmouth and Boston.

In his seventy-seventh year, Dr. Jacques, noted scientist and inventor, passed away Thursday at his summer home in this picturesque town, where he had carried on much of his research in the study of electricity, light, heat and sound. Here, too, he had experimented with a submarine detecting device for the British government during the war.

Dr. Jacques took up the study of sound while a student at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, from which he graduated as bachelor of science in 1876. He later became associated with Dr. Alexander Graham Bell when the renowned inventor was perfecting the telephone in Boston.

He patented a device which was perfected by the American Bell Telephone Company. He was employed as an expert with the company from 1890 until 1897. His several inventions brought him considerable wealth.

He was a fellow of the American Academy of Science and a doctor of philosophy from Johns Hopkins University. He was born at Haverhill, Mass., August 30, 1855.

Development of northern Ontario china clay deposits is expected to make considerable headway during 1932.

MUTUAL GAINS AT CONFERENCE

Canadian Press
Wellington, N.Z., June 27.—New Zealand will strive for mutual advantages, for her future depends on the prosperity of Britain and her sister Dominions," said Rt. Hon. J. G. Coates, Minister of Public Works and former Prime Minister of New Zealand, as he prepared yesterday evening to lead the Dominion's delegation to the Imperial Economic Conference at Ottawa.

"I have much faith in the good outcome of the Ottawa conference, provided each unit of the empire is prepared to co-operate in solving the vital economic problems facing the British Commonwealth," said Mr. Coates. There was ample evidence a real desire existed to make the conference the turning point in intra-empire trade and financial relations, he said.

The scope of the agenda, Mr. Coates added, showed it was only by strengthening the whole foundation of empire commerce that there would be hope for economic recovery. No part of the empire would hope to benefit at another's expense, nor could one Dominion find that way out without co-operating with the other units.

Mr. Coates will be accompanied by Hon. Downie W. Stewart, Finance Minister, and official and unofficial advisers.

The South African and Australian delegations are already on their way to Ottawa, while the Indian delegation will leave London with the United Kingdom's delegates.

The liner Aorangi, carrying the New Zealand and Australian delegates, is scheduled to arrive at Victoria July 14 and proceed to Vancouver the same day.

Canadian Press

Wellington, N.Z., June 27.—Members of the Australian and New Zealand delegations to the Imperial Economic Conference were tendered a dinner this evening by Lord Bledisloe, Governor-General of New Zealand, and Lady Bledisloe at Government House on the eve of their departure for Victoria and Vancouver aboard the liner Aorangi. The Australian delegation, headed by Rt. Hon. Stanley Melbourne Bruce, Assistant Treasurer, is traveling with the New Zealand delegation, headed by Hon. Downie W. Stewart, Finance Minister, and Rt. Hon. J. G. Coates, Minister of Public Works.

VANCOUVER STORE SAFE IS ROBBED

Canadian Press
Vancouver, June 27.—The safe of Johnston's Footwear Limited, Hastings Street, was broken into during the week-end and $700 stolen, police were informed. The robbery was discovered by a constable on the beat early Sunday morning. It was found the yeggs had cut open the bottom of the strong box to extract the money. No arrests have been made.

Auto bandits held up H. Little, Smith Street, late Saturday evening, and, after ordering him to drive to the west end, made him alight from his cab at the point of a gun and then drove off with the machine. Police found the car later near Little Mountain.

Police to-day were seeking the identity of an Oriental whose body was found floating in Burrard Inlet Sunday morning. There was nothing in the clothing to indicate who the man was.

Says Slump Teaches Canada Lesson

Canadian Press
Lucerne, Que., June 27.—Valuable lessons had been learned in Canada during the last three years, A. E. Ames, Toronto, told members of the Investment Bankers' Association of Canada at their annual banquet here. He asked the investment bankers to remember these lessons and particularly to guard against a repetition of charges which had been made against them as a result of the financial debacle since 1929.

Hon. Charles A. Dunning, former minister of finance, shared the responsibility of the slump and referred hopefully to the forthcoming Imperial Conference. He injected a note of caution when he said it would be unwise to expect immediate results. The conference, he thought, should result in setting up some means of the British nations exchanging their goods. In so far as Canada was concerned, he said that if Canada could not dispose of her surplus, particularly in so far as the products of her natural resources were concerned, then hundreds of thousands of Canadians would be unemployed eventually.

THREE LOSE LIVES IN RIVER

Canadian Press
Charlottetown, P.E.I., June 27.—Tragically and heroically went hand in hand yesterday evening as Foxley River claimed the lives of two youths and a girl, and spared three other girls after a small dory had capsized in mid-channel.

Albert Adams, twenty-one, and Edward Lidstone, eighteen, drowned after they had assisted Irene Sullivan, Lily Lynch and Annie Lynch to the overturned boat. Gladys Sullivan, twelve, had disappeared. The body of the girl and those of the two youths were recovered later in the night.

Coroner J. B. Champion decided an inquest was unnecessary. The four girls and two boys left shore about 6 o'clock for a cruise on the river. The boat had been allowed to drift to mid-stream, and there the passengers attempted to exchange places. The little craft capsized and flung them into the water.

Want Sugar Refinery Now in Manitoba

Winnipeg, June 27.—Establishment of a beet sugar refinery in Manitoba will be one of the developments of the present year, Theo Kipp, chairman of the industrial development board of Manitoba, stated at the annual meeting of the body to-night. He said the American sugar beet company of Denver, Col., would start erection of a branch plant here this year and would have it in operation in 1933.

There was every prospect of other new industries coming to Manitoba as soon as economic conditions improved, the chairman stated. During the past year, despite depressed conditions, seventy-eight new industries had been established and many new lines had been added to the production of Manitoba manufacturers.

See Imports Now As Bright Feature

Ottawa, June 27.—Resumption of the importation of raw materials in large volume is referred to as "a bright feature," in the review of business operations published by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics. Raw cotton, is stated, was imported to the amount of 12,463,000 pounds in May as compared with 6,280,000 pounds in April. The bureau states that the normal gain for the season is slight, so this sum may be regarded as significant.

Imports of raw wool and wool yarn, mainly used in the manufacture of woollen cloth, also showed a strong tendency toward revival, the bureau reports. The receipt from external countries was 1,096,000 pounds compared with 347,000 in April, the gain being almost the same after the elimination of the seasonal factor. Not only was a marked gain shown in May over the preceding month, but imports of raw material were much greater than in the same month of 1931.

The manufacture of sugar was 58,761,000 pounds in May compared with 35,879,000 pounds in April. Flour milling was less active in the last month for which statistics are available. The gain in inspected slaughtering of hogs after seasonal adjustment was more than 12 per cent, 254,835 head being slaughtered compared with 229,124 in April.

The index of manufacturing production was 144.2 compared with 118.0 in April, the gain in the imports of raw material being the main influence in raising the index.

BANKER SEES FAVORABLE SIGNS

Steps taken by Canadian manufacturers, business men and farmers, to readjust production methods and costs have placed the Dominion in a position to show rapid improvement when world conditions get better, S. H. Logan, general manager of the Canadian Bank of Commerce, said at the regular quarterly meeting of the directors.

Indications were that causes of the depression were becoming more fully understood and that international co-operation could turn the world towards prosperity, he said. Favorable signs for improvement in Canada were the bumper crop prospects, increased production in coal and gold, with bright prospects of further expansion in the latter mineral, and the wider overseas market for Canadian newsprint.

Dealing with agriculture, Mr. Logan said Western Canada crop prospects were at present the best since 1928, the last bumper crop year. Risk of

Shows Italians Canada Flour Best

Canadian Press
Rome, June 27.—The superior qualities of Canadian flour for bread making purposes were demonstrated in striking fashion before the international bread-making congress here today by Dr. F. J. Birchard, chemist of the Canadian Grain Commission, Winnipeg, one of the Dominion's delegates to the congress.

Twelve loaves, baked at Bologna with Italian flour, were compared by Dr. Birchard with loaves made with mixtures of Canadian and Italian flour and finally with bread in which the Canadian product only was used.

As the percentage in which the Canadian flour was used, increased, the loaves increased in volume and improved in color and texture. The loaf made 100 per cent from Canadian flour was twice the size of that made entirely from Italian.

"LOYALTY WEEK"

THIS WEEK IS "LOYALTY WEEK" IN Victoria. It has been set aside for the purpose of impressing upon the minds of our citizens the fact that in this community there is grown and manufactured a wide range of products in daily demand—products in competition with imported articles. To put it briefly, "Loyalty Week" is intended to remind every Victorian how simple it would be to increase local payrolls, cut down the list of idle workers, simply by purchasing the products of Vancouver Island's farms and factories.

Many buy-at-home campaigns have been held in recent years; but the lesson they are intended to teach does not seem to have been properly learned. It may be that in some instances the imported article costs a little less and is perhaps a little more attractively presented for sale; but if every consumer would make a point of comparing the quality, it would be found that the local article would stand the test. Even if the cost were a trifle higher, the way to bring it down would be to increase the demand.

Local products this week will be on display at both Capitol and Dominion theatres, the management of which is sponsoring the movement, and "Loyalty Week" has the hearty support of the Victoria Chamber of Commerce. All that is required to make it a success is for every citizen to ask for the locally-grown and locally-manufactured article. It is for the producers of these articles, of course, to see that they are well displayed, shown in such a way as to invite purchase. Incidentally, every week should be "Loyalty Week," or buy-at-home week.

STATISTICS AND THEIR MORAL

IN A SEARCHING ANALYSIS OF British trade figures, The Border Cities Star shows that, notwithstanding the jubilation with which the high tariffs acclaimed Britain's adoption of customs tariff protection, the policy effected no improvement in overseas commerce. The artificial stimulation of trade, following the inevitable flurry of orders received by the manufacturers when the duties first were announced, has been succeeded by a sharp decline, particularly of imports.

The Star quotes the British Board of Trade figures to show that in May the imports declined $14,000,000 as compared with those of May, 1931, although they show an increase of $2,243,000 as compared with last April.

Exports for May were $30,196,984 as compared with $33,895,429 for May, 1931, and $34,781,913 for April. Most of the decline came in the export of articles that are either wholly or mainly manufactured in England. In May, the re-exports were $4,398,540, a drop of $1,348,315.

For the first five months of the year the total imports by Great Britain were $302,563,000. That is a reduction of $48,791,000 as compared with the same period a year ago. During the same period the exports amounted to $157,303,819. That is a decline of $12,414,299 as compared with a year ago.

The Star quotes the following totals for the first five months of the calendar year and compares them with the corresponding period in 1931 and 1930:

	1932	1931	1930
Exports of British goods:
.....	$157,303,000	$169,724,000	$362,006,000
Re-exports of foreign goods:
.....	$5,146,000	$9,664,000	$14,401,000
Total exports	$162,449,000	$179,388,000	$376,407,000
Total imports	$302,563,000	$349,354,000	$456,328,000
Excess imports over exports:
.....	$140,114,000	$169,966,000	$154,921,000

Those are the figures for the total trade for the first five months of the calendar years 1932, 1931 and 1930. A mere glance at the totals shows the way international trade has fallen in so far as Great Britain is concerned.

Other statistics of trade could be quoted showing the trend through the months. They all reveal the same situation, a decline of commerce. Since the war the largest monthly total of exports sent from Great Britain was in July of 1920 when goods to the value of $137,451,904 were shipped. The smallest monthly trade total came in August of 1931, a month before the gold standard was abandoned, and amounted to $29,137,000.

In July of 1920 also Britain scored her record high for imports since the war with a total of $188,093,338. The lowest total since the war was in April of 1932 with $53,487,000. In January of 1919 there was the largest surplus of imports over exports for one month since the war when the excess of imports reached $82,543,136. The smallest excess of imports over exports came in February of 1922 with $685,512.

The moral of these statistics is as plain as a pikestaff. No country can increase its commerce by erecting walls in the way of it. This dictum is particularly applicable to Great Britain, whose enormous industrial structure and vast mercantile marine have been built up on the basis of a commerce which encompasses the whole world, and which can not be maintained except upon that basis.

Of all great trading nations Britain is the least self-contained, and it is not at all surprising that her attempt to contract herself within the narrow limits of a protective tariff should result in a decline of trade and an increase of 100,000 in the unemployment total. It is a safe prediction that before many months Britain will return to the policy which made her the chief trading nation of the world.

THERE MUST BE GIVE AND TAKE

BEFORE THE SHERBROOKE CHAM-ber of Commerce on Saturday, Hon. H. H. Stevens, Minister of Trade and Commerce, said "the government has purposely and deliberately refrained from declaring its policy because any such declaration on the eve of the empire party would precipitate unnecessary, not to say harmful, discussion of what would probably transpire when the negotiations of the British Commonwealth meet."

There will be no disposition to quarrel with the statement of Mr. Stevens as it stands. But what the Canadian people want to know is that the members of the government have prepared a case for Canada, a case that will conform to the "spirit of mutual co-operation" of which Mr. Stevens also spoke at Sherbrooke. The tone of the Minister's remarks leads one to believe that he and his colleagues will approach the conference chamber with poker faces. Surely there is nothing to be afraid of if there is a real desire to co-operate.

It has been said many times that unless all the countries participating in this gathering go to Ottawa with the distinct understanding that its success depends entirely upon an agreement to give and take, their delegates may just as well stay at home. Its repetition here, especially in view of Mr. Stevens' statement, is not out of place.

CHECKING RUSSIA OVER

EIGHT PROMINENT BUSINESS MEN from the United States have arranged to go to Russia early next month to try to find out for themselves just what is happening there, how the country is getting along with its Five-Year Plan, and what the prospects are for the future.

The personnel of the commission is not yet known. It will be fostered by the American Russian Chamber of Commerce, but it will travel, once it is set up, entirely on its own initiative and at its own expense. And the calibre of the members, we are told, will assure it the respect and backing of responsible business in the United States. Each member will report individually when he returns.

As previewed by executives who are eagerly awaiting the report of the commission, there are five main topics on which the manufacturer and exporter seek reliable information. The first is an intelligent appraisal of the first Five-Year Plan. How wisely was it conceived? Does it form a sound basis on which the Soviets can be expected to develop the great industrial nation which they visualize? Have the various key projects been well carried out? Is the scheme likely to succeed in raising the standard of living to the extent that it claims it can? How serious are the accusations of forced labor, mismanagement? Is the Soviet Union a menace in world markets?

Because American business is desperately seeking new trade outlets, and because of the promise of huge orders if Moscow can develop the second Five-Year Plan in a manner similar to the first, the commissioners will attempt to appraise the projected plan by going over it with officials in Moscow, by visiting the sites which will be developed as a part of it, by studying the whole system into which it must fit. What they say concerning these two plans no doubt will carry much weight with the manufacturer in the United States who sees a large volume of business ahead if he can secure some of the huge orders which Moscow is expected to place.

Each member of the commission will interpret the entire Soviet experiment in relation to American business. It will attempt to do something similar to what the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce does for American business in countries recognized by Washington. It will be in no position to supply immediate trade information to specific industries or to keep its report up to date. But it will make that first fundamental study on which individual business men can base their thinking.

So far, the present plan has no backing from the United States Chamber of Commerce or from the American Federation of Labor. It is entirely separated from any political connection. But the fact that Washington has agreed that Russia sit in on the world economic conference in London, if and when it is held, and the fact that Russians are participating in many trade conferences—oil was the most recent—in which our neighbors are participating, is evidence that they are becoming an important cog in the world business machine.

WHAT OTHER PAPERS SAY

THE HUDSON BAY ROUTE
The Winnipeg Free Press

The development of import trade through Hudson Bay is necessary to the success of the northern route and to ensuring to exporters the full benefit of the low transportation rates which that route should offer. The Hudson Bay Railway was built by the Dominion and the opening of the Bay route has been a national enterprise. It is the natural function of the Dominion Government to see that the best possible return is obtained from the investment of over $50,000,000 and that means activity in seeking the development of traffic.

LADY GREGORY
The New York Herald Tribune

Irish literature—and the world's literature, too—owes more to Lady Gregory for her practical help to an astonishing burst of creative effort than for what she contributed by her own writing. Compared with the genius of Synge, one of the few great playwrights of this age, compared with Yeats, one of its genuine poets, her own plays and books naturally suffer. In literary quality she can scarcely have a place beside them, yet their fame would have been less without her, without the consuming, tireless faith, the organizing ability, the courage and persistence she brought to the "Celtic movement." When one thinks of the "movement" one thinks first of her, a helpful colleague, a godmother of letters, an all-important catalytic in the rediscovery of the beauties of Irish speech and Irish story.

The rare talents existed, to be sure, and would have made some way alone, but they needed a meeting place and opportunity to be known, and these she provided. The Abbey Theatre was of her making—Bernard Shaw called her its "savior." And it was the Abbey Theatre that showed us in its full flower the heroic fancy of the Irish mind. It was Lady Gregory, too, who brought to this country twenty years ago, Synge's "Playboy of the Western World," a chief jewel in the crown she had helped put upon the head of Ireland.

RIOTS SEEN IN NORTH IRELAND

Orangemen and Pilgrims
Going to Eucharistic Congress at Dublin Clash

Associated Press
Belfast, Northern Ireland, June 27.—Scores of Irish men and women, nursed injuries to-day after a flaring of the ancient feud between the orange and the green yesterday.

In several parts of Northern Ireland Roman Catholic pilgrims, on their way to the closing ceremonies of the Eucharistic Congress at Dublin, were attacked, stoned and beaten.

After earlier riots in four cities, seven of nine trains carrying pilgrims were stoned between Portadown and Belfast. Excursion steamers carrying pilgrims also were pelted with stones at Larne, and several men were struck. Stones also crashed through windows of the St. Narcissus chapel at Larne.

CARDINAL PROTECTORS
As a result of these attacks the government of Northern Ireland was taking precautions to-day to protect Cardinal Laffan, papal legate, when he visits Ulster to-morrow. Every part of his route from the Free State border to Armagh will be guarded by regular and special police.

DISORDERS IN BELFAST
There were clashes yesterday in Belfast. The worst outbreaks occurred at Ballymena, where a crowd was on hand as hundreds of pilgrims gathered at the railway station to board their trains.

A fight developed, and as it progressed it became evident the pilgrims were being worsted, and the police succumbed in confining the ill-tempered crowd to the opposite side of the roadway, where stones and bottles could still be hurled at the pilgrims.

Before the officers took a hand, however, several pilgrims had been beaten and kicked. Some women were thrown down, their hats pulled off, their umbrellas broken and their basket hunches taken from them.

Many girls among the pilgrims became hysterical. Others wept and still others knelt in prayer.

At the train left the station, large stones bunched off the carriage roofs, broke windows and littered the corridors with broken glass.

Before the train started a crowd of Orangemen paraded through the principal streets of the town, singing songs.

At Larne, a clash occurred as the pilgrims were about to board a steamer for Dublin. Portholes of the vessel were broken. The windows of the buses, which had brought them, were smashed and several persons were injured, but none seriously.

The Belfast and Coleraine disturbances were comparatively minor. In the capital, stones were thrown at street cars conveying pilgrims to the Great Northern station, where they were to be entrained for Dublin. The police made a large charge, and two policemen were injured.

Omnibus windows were broken at Coleraine in a similar display.

At Donemane, in Tyrone, the papal flags and colors of the Eucharistic Congress, which were being displayed by Roman Catholic citizens, were hauled down and burned. A large parade of Orangemen was followed by firing of revolver shots and stone throwing. Police reinforcement were called to restore order.

On a count of points Deaville was awarded the upper school championship, Fisher the middle school, whilst Buckley, minor, carried off the one for the juniors.

Mr. Emerson, the headmaster, in a short address, reported excellent progress in the scholastic work of the boys for the last year, and thanked both parents and staff for their willing and loyal co-operation. The proceedings closed with the National Anthem, and the boys dismissed for the summer vacation.

DICKIE EXPLAINS PIER ISLAND JOBS
Only Saanich, Oak Bay and
Gulf Islands Men Eligible

C. H. Dickie, M.P. for Nanaimo riding, announced that in selection of workmen for construction of homes for the convicted Doukhobor nudists at Pier Island, the only preference would be for ex-service men. Thirty-five per cent of the men employed would be returned men, he said.

Mr. Dickie confirmed the reports that only unemployed men from Saanich, Oak Bay and the Islands could obtain work on the job, this being in line with the general policy of government undertakings to take employees from the district in which the work is done.

No regard for political affiliations of prospective workmen would be shown, he claimed. Between forty and fifty men would be retained.

Mr. Dickie said that W. O. Wallace had been appointed to assist in the selection of the workmen because of his wide knowledge of conditions in the districts affected.

Big Guns Boom As Artillerymen Balk
Attacking "Fleet"

Fifth Brigade Gunners in Esquimalt Fortresses Defend Victoria From Designs of Blue Land in Battle That Lasted All Saturday Afternoon and Evening;
Enemy Cruisers, Destroyers, Aircraft Carriers and Submarines Are Driven Off

By The Times War Correspondent.

Esquimalt Defences, June 27.—As the good citizens of Victoria with their customary feeling of security pursued the even tenor of their ways Saturday afternoon and evening, and hearing the intermittent boom of guns toward the west, told themselves it was just a few gunnery men having a good time; as they worked in their offices or went to the beaches and the country, as they swam, played or watched tennis, cricket, baseball, golf, lawn bowling, walked, listened to the radio, took in the movies, danced; as they acted as free-willed citizens of a democratic state, two hundred trained artillerymen of the Fifth B.C. Coast Brigade, working quietly and efficiently and with the determination not to cause any unnecessary alarm to unwitting men, women and children, repulsed a hostile fleet of cruisers, destroyers, submarines and aircraft carriers identified as the property of Blue Land, which is, of course, a military and naval autocracy and would, if triumphant, smash all democratic institutions and set up its unprincipled despotic rule.

Just as the 55th President Madison slipped to its outer wharf mooring and safety, about 3 o'clock Saturday afternoon, word was flashed from Lieutenant-Col. T. B. Monk, in the fire commander's post at Rodd Hill, to Fort Macaulay, ordering Major M. Aubrey Kent to have his 56th Heavy Battery artillerymen ready at their guns for the attack. The enemy fleet had not yet been sighted, though the sun shone brightly and only mirage effects spoiled the visibility.

But the fleet's progress toward this continent and rumors that Blue Land was soon to fulfill its cherished ambition to conquer and subdue Victoria had resulted in very definite orders being given the officers and men of the Fifth Regiment. At Fort Macaulay were the 56th under Major Kent and the Second Anti-aircraft Section under Lieutenant T. McGimpsey, with two six-inchers, two twelve-pounders and an anti-aircraft gun. At Belmont, which is half a mile along the Coast, and is one of the three batteries constituting the Rodd Hill fortress, was the 55th Heavy Battery under Major C. S. Gonnason, supplied with two twelve-pounders. At Signal Hill was the permanent unit, the 5th Heavy Battery, R.C.A., under Major H. M. Reynolds. Here were the two 9.2-inch guns.

Lieut.-Col. A. V. Tremayne, a permanent artillery officer of great experience, was in general charge of the defence, with headquarters at Belmont. Major W. H. Dobble was the R.C.A. observer at Fort Macaulay for the six-inch guns and the twelve-pounders, and Major J. G. Rycroft for the anti-aircraft. Engineers and signallers at the three forts were standing by.

AIRPLANE ATTACK
First there were smudges of smoke on the horizon far out toward Seattle. Soon the powerful glasses of observers at Fort Macaulay identified ships of suspicious appearance. The three forts had been in readiness for some time. It would be half an hour before the approaching vessels came within firing range, but it was lucky the defenders at Fort Macaulay did not relax, for suddenly there was whirling and overhead which became louder and louder, and soon the fortress was the object of an airplane attack.

The Second Anti-aircraft Section under Lieut. McGimpsey swung into action, and in spite of a tricky wind at the 9,000-foot altitude from which the enemy fliers were releasing their bombs, twenty rounds from Fort Macaulay were sufficient to convince the attackers they could not take the city by surprise, and must retire to fight it out from their ships.

The repulse of the air attack caused the warships to anchor temporarily well out in the straits, and it was getting on toward 5 o'clock before their altitudes could be made out, their types determined and their most vulnerable spots decided on.

The cruisers and destroyers came in close, firing broadsides and doing considerable damage. The six-inchers at Fort Macaulay opened up, and evidently the enemy commander had had enough from that part of the defences, for the fleet steamed on toward Belmont.

Here "real excitement" was caused by a submarine attack. A periscope was sighted moving toward the shore, making a small white wash as it approached. The low trajectory twelve pounders went into action, the shells ricocheting far out to sea after they hit the water all around the submarine. After ten rounds the periscope disappeared and since no torpedoes came in, the sub was reported sunk.

At about 7 o'clock the big 9.2 guns at Signal Hill opened fire at long range in an effort to further harass the enemy fleet, which had retired out into the strait apparently to prepare for a night attack. Shortly after the six-inch guns opened fire from Fort Macaulay at a section of the fleet which was coming in close and firing toward the city without much success.

As the sun sunk over the hills, a brief respite was given the defenders before the "expected" night attack, which came with alarming suddenness shortly after darkness set in and kept the Fifth Regiment artillerymen on the qui vive till midnight. Searchlights pierced the darkness, and fire was opened from all three forts at several ships which were detected about 1,700 yards out, stealing toward the shore. The aim was deadly while the battle lasted, but soon the enemy once again withdrew.

It is reported they sailed over toward Vancouver, where it is expected they will reorganize prior to an attack which may be made next weekend, and which will involve many units of infantry as well as the courageous artillerymen, who Saturday filled a sudden emergency and saved the city temporarily from the designs of Blue Land, a country about which many tales of strong-doing and maltreatment are told.

Weather Forecast—Victoria and vicinity: Moderate to fresh westerly winds, generally fair and cooler.

Steamer Venture, of the Bosconia Steamship Company, arrived in port last night from northern British Columbia. From Port Eslington she towed the tug Chieftain, which was recently severely damaged by fire. The Chieftain was towed as far as Lady-smith, and came the rest of the way to this port under her own steam.

A meeting was held in Sidney to consider the advisability of starting a new creamery or inducing the Victoria Creamery to locate at that place. After thoroughly discussing the matter the Sidney Creamery Association was launched with a provincial barge.

The Silica Brick Company have commenced their operations of making the new compressed brick at the works at Colwood. This brick is not only waterproof, but also fire resisting. The new brick, which is a sanitary one, is pressed, and those interested claim that it is equal in every way to the best clay brick on the market.

With a passenger list of 326, the steamer City of Puebla arrived in port last evening from San Francisco.

A few minutes after the City Hall clock has chimed the hour of 10 o'clock to-night, the bells in the fire halls throughout the city will repeat the strokes as a warning to the youth of the city that it is time for them to desert the streets for their homes. The revival of the old curfew regulation was decided upon at a meeting of the police commission held yesterday afternoon.

Back of Canadian Homes» » »

THANKS to the foresight of past years, hundreds of thousands of Canadian homes are now protected against present-day privations and future uncertainties. Back of these homes is a vast financial reserve created by savings wisely invested in Life Insurance.

Canadians today own $6,800,000,000 of Life Insurance. In a period of financial disturbance, these policyholders have proved that Life Insurance lives up to every promise—never depreciates in value—pays every obligation fully and promptly—and constantly safeguards the homes and businesses of the nation.

Frequently, Life Insurance has become the only asset of a family made poor by adverse circumstances, or bereaved by the loss of a breadwinner. Likewise, it has ensured independence for many a man who has been obliged to retire earlier than he had expected.

It is more necessary now than ever to maintain the full protection of your Life Insurance. It is wisdom, too, to add to your investment in Life Insurance so that it will provide ample security for the future of yourself and loved ones.

The new list of books at the Victoria Public Library includes:

NON-FICTION
"Thunder and Dawn," by Glenn Frank, is a series of studies which have "grown out of an attempt to assess realistically the elements of health and the elements of disease in the political, social and economic orders of western life." The contents are: Western man faces the future; The crisis of the Western spirit; The prophets of doom speak; Education for social mastery; The social dynamics of religion; The West goes American, etc.

"Sir Walter Raleigh; that Damned Upstart," by D. B. Chidsey, is a biography, written in rapid, popular style, of this many-sided man of genius, who was one of the most famous of the Elizabethan sea-dogs. The author obviously understands men and women as they exist in their own nature, and refuses to be shocked by a less sentimental age.

"Footloose in the West," by Charles Finger, is a lighthearted account of an impromptu holiday, taken by the author, his son and his daughter. Some critics call it his best travel book; it has the impromptu quality of a journey undertaken if not on the spur of the moment, certainly under the spur of a true wanderlust.

"Shropshire of Mary Webb," by W. Reid Chappell, has been written under the inspiration and with the guidance of Mary Webb's husband. It is an attractive and interesting production designed to appeal both to nature lovers and the many admirers of Mary Webb, as well as those who delight in literary pilgrimages. Shropshire is becoming increasingly popular to English and American visitors, particularly since the "Shropshire Lane," as G. K. Chesterton calls her, has immortalized the county and its people.

"Afoot in Italy," by John Gibbons, is an unusual travel book about Italy. The author is an English newspaper man, who was sent out by his paper to get something which would be likely to interest his readers. The writer has a gift for spontaneity which is very pleasing.

"My South Sea Island," by Eric Muspratt, is the story of six months spent in charge of a coconut plantation on San Cristoval, one of the least civilized islands in the South Pacific Ocean. This is the author's first book. He began his career as a newspaper boy at the age of nine; later he went to sea, and as worker or stowaway visited most parts of the world.

"Brave Days," by Neil Munro, is not in any sense an autobiography; these charming papers embody memoirs of his childhood in Inverary, of encounters made as author and journalist in Glasgow over a period of thirty years, of queer characters and movements observed by a remarkably shrewd eye, and of experiences in time of war. The papers have been so arranged as to have continuity and with the introduction provided by George Blake it makes a fitting memorial of a brilliant and lovable man.

"America Weighs Her Gold," by James Harvey Rogers, analyzes the extraordinary mal-distribution of the world's gold supply, with its attendant evils, and the extent to which America, through her tariff and her trade policies, is responsible for the present depression.

"Psychology: Science or Superstition?" by Grace Adams, is a critical-historical survey of modern psychology from its beginnings in the Leipzig laboratory of Wundt to the present. James, Titchener, Hall, Watson, Freud, Jung, Adler, and down to the modern Gestaltists, Koffka and Kurt. It includes as well examinations of such contemporary psychological by-products as mental hygiene, industrial and vocational psychology, and mental tests. Dr. Adams's purpose is two-fold: to present a simple elucidation of the history and claims of all the conflicting schools of modern psychology, investigation, and to analyze and appraise the actual advances and achievements of each.

"Race Mixture," by Edward Byron Reuter, is a series of nine studies, some of which were originally prepared for meetings of scientific societies. The general thesis is that racial problems are sociological rather than biological.

The contents are: Civilization and the mixture of races; Racial amalgamation in the United States; Sex distribution in the mulatto population; The legal status of racial intermarriage; Color and achievement; The superiority of the mulatto; The changing status of the mulatto; The hybrid as a sociological type; The personality of mixed bloods.

"Charles Darwin: the Man and his Warfare," by Charles Henshaw Ward, centres attention on the growth of Darwin's theory, his years of patient observation and research, the writing of the "Origin of the Species," and the reception of his theory by scientists.

"You and Your Work," by I. D. Cohen and R. A. Flinn, is a first book in vocational guidance. Particular emphasis is placed on the advantages of further education and on guiding principles in the selection of a life work.

The influence of health, social relationships, leisure time pursuits, and the development of personality and character upon final choice in any occupation is vividly brought out.

It is an attempt to provide for the pupil in the upper elementary and junior high schools a general knowledge of the working world and specific information regarding the opportunities he has while he is still in school to lay a foundation for future specialization as well as information about occupations and how to find a position in the right occupation.

"House that Freud Built," by Joseph Fretlow, is a short popular description of the whole Freudian structure, its strong and weak points are analyzed critically and its future forecast by a great American psychologist.

"Tempo of Modern Life," by James Truslow Adams, deals with such vital matters as, diminishing returns in

PASTOR DIES IN HIS CHURCH

Rev. J. R. Robertson Succumbs at Sunday Service in Vancouver

Canadian Press
Vancouver, June 27.—Uttering the closing words of a farewell sermon to his congregation at the morning service in St. James United Church here yesterday, Rev. J. R. Robertson suddenly collapsed and died almost at once. Well known in church circles in British Columbia, Mr. Robertson was taking leave of his congregation after several years' pastorate to take charge of a parish on Salt Spring Island. Born in Ontario about fifty-five years ago, he spent his childhood in Manitoba. He graduated from the University of Manitoba and entered the Presbyterian ministry at an early age. He held pastorates at Grand Forks and Revelstoke, B.C., and for fifteen years was pastor of St. David's Church, South Vancouver. In his time he had been moderator of the Presbyterian synod of British Columbia and president of the Vancouver Ministerial Association. All his pastorates had been in this province.

Merchants, Theatres Allied in Drive For Home Product Support

Chambers of Commerce Foster Campaign Originated By Leading Local Theatres

PUBLIC URGED TO BUY
LOCALLY MADE GOODS

Dominion and Capitol Theatres to Feature Special Lobby Displays

Featured by special displays of home products in the lobbies of the Dominion and Capitol Theatres, by special educational "trailer" films and by special window displays in downtown stores, "Support Home Industries Week" will be sponsored here for the next seven days by the two local Chambers of Commerce.

The purpose of the drive is to emphasize the vital importance to Victoria and Canadian prosperity of creating employment by purchasing home products wherever possible. The idea of the campaign originated with J. M. Robertson and "Cliff" Denham, managers, respectively of the Dominion and Capitol Theatres. They were responsible, about a year ago, for the development of the idea of "Prosperity Week"—a similar movement to foster Canada's welfare through the purchase of Canadian goods. This campaign had its inception here and eventually spread throughout Canada, securing the active support of the Federal Government and meeting with marked success.

Recently the managers of the two theatres have had numerous requests from local business men to launch a second drive in the interests of home industries. Messrs. Robertson and Denham acceded to these requests, received the endorsement of the Chambers of Commerce for their plan and "Support Home Industries Week" will now place its important message before the people of Victoria.

Attractive programmes of entertainment are booked for both theatres during the week, and it is estimated that thousands of people will view the special displays of home products arranged in the lobbies.

Never before, business leaders point out, has local support for home industries been so necessary for the welfare of the community. The present period of business stress has placed additional emphasis on the necessity of creating bigger pay rolls through local consumer demand for home products.

Every purchase of locally made goods, these business men say, helps to create employment for Canadians, and further assists Canada's return to prosperity by keeping Canadian dollars at home. In times like these, they contend, all elements in the community should strive to work for the common good and no quicker nor surer road to the improvement of the standard of living of the mass of the people can be found than an increased local consumption of locally produced goods.

Co-operation of the public is sought not merely for the duration of "Support Home Industries Week," but continuously in future, so that the influence of increased demand for local products and local labor will give an ever-increasing impetus to the prosperity of the community. Every Victorian is strongly urged to make a point of visiting the two leading theatres this week in order to become familiar with the diversity and fineness of available home products.

SEEK CUT IN LUMBER RATES

Alberni's Boards of Trade Appeal to Railroads to Assist Revival of Industry

Port Alberni, June 27.—Port Alberni and Alberni Boards of Trade met on Friday evening in joint session. W. W. Walkem of Ladysmith, president of the Associated Boards of Trade of Vancouver Island, was present on an official visit to the boards. A resolution was adopted asking the railroads to grant a 50 per cent discount on lumber freight rates to the prairie provinces during the time that wheat will be moving westwards with cars returning empty. It was shown that the average value of a carload of lumber is only $250, while freight to an average prairie destination is $400. This matter will be pressed strongly in the hope that the potential market for lumber known to exist on the prairies, and which is handicapped by low grain values, will be stimulated to the extent that mills, all of which are now idle, may be opened again. Only some such action, it is felt, will avert disaster to districts which now have no payroll and no funds for further relief work. The proposed discount is also considered good business in the circumstances for the railways. C. A. McNaughton, president, with E. J. Cronk and Keith C. Wiles, were appointed to represent the Port Alberni board at the forthcoming convention of the associated boards at Nanaimo. They were instructed to press the boards' resolution calling for amendments to the criminal code to enable provincial government lotteries to be held for general revenue purposes.

A joint committee of the two boards was appointed to investigate gasoline prices in the district, and to suggest possible means of combating what is considered to be bordering on a combination in restraint of trade.

Both boards have wired Premier Bennett calling attention to the disastrous conditions consequent upon entire cessation of logging and lumbering operations.

BIRD GARDENS
This is the time of year when canaries and lovebirds are apt to drop a bit for want of a bit of green in their lives. You can make a nice little bird garden by planting just a little bird grass seed or other green in a shallow box. Have the box big enough so you can take out the bottom of the bird cage and get the cage right over the garden. Then watch your little pet perk up!

DECORATION HINT
White contrasting with a dark shade is the smartest thing in interior decoration. To achieve this effect, white satin damask drapes were hung in a room with dark brown walls. More conventional are chintz draperies with a brown background and large floral pattern in white.

LOCAL NINE BREAKS EVEN

Divide Two Exhibition Ball Games Against Visiting Tacoma Kittens

Brilliant Pitching By Lee, Fraser Cafe, Features 5 to 1 Over Tacoma

Victoria's all-star ball team broke even with the Tacoma Kittens in the two exhibition games at the Royal Athletic Park on Saturday. The visiting team topped the afternoon fixture 7 to 4, with the local taking the twilight battle 5 to 1. Both games attracted good attendance.

The local victory was featured by the brilliant pitching of Dick Lee, Fraser Cafe, West Westminster, who held the Kittens hitless for seven innings. In the last two innings the Tacoma club secured three hits to score their lone run. Lee, possessing lots of speed and a world of stuff, had the Kittens helpless for seven innings. Wasmund, who was hit by a pitched ball in the sixth, was the first visiting player to reach first. The remainder of the Victoria team turned in an errorless performance. Wasmund started on the mound for Tacoma, but was replaced in the fifth by Delano. Victoria collected a total of ten hits.

TOO MANY ERRORS
In the afternoon game, Dodd, another Fraser Cafe hurler, worked for Victoria and allowed the visitors only eight hits, but too many errors by the Victoria players, robbed him of a victory. Miescu gave the visitors four of their seven runs.

Many Visitors At Garden Fete At "Mount Joy"

The lovely old gardens of "Mount Joy," the residence of Mr. and Mrs. F. B. Pemberton, were thronged with visitors on Saturday afternoon when the Native Daughters of B.C. Post No. 3 held their annual garden party, the brilliant weather enhancing the attractiveness of the occasion. Members of the post, wearing crinolines and quaint Victorian hats, welcomed the guests and were in charge of various stalls. Mrs. C. W. Davies, chief factor of the post, received the guests, and tea was served in the rustic summer house, under the convensancy of Medames E. and W. H. Kinsman and W. Champion. Assisting were Medames R. Cruickshank, Misses Allison Chow and Jean Lorimer. Mrs. F. Webb and Mrs. J. A. Macintosh had charge of the candy stall and Mrs. R. A. C. Grant and Miss MacCorkill sold ice cream from a beautifully decorated stall. Mrs. H. Beckwith was the lady of a thousand tasks, and Misses J. and M. MacCorkill and Marjorie Gillies sold home-made dainties. Mrs. Newbury assisted in many ways and the candy stall was of her own design. During the afternoon W. G. Plowright's orchestra played several enjoyable selections. Dancing by Miss Clough's pupils was a great attraction.

For the Five C's, Lee took four wickets for thirty-one runs in nine overs, while Erickson took three for twenty in 4.7 overs.

Allen showed up to particular advantage in the bowling lists for the Incogs. He took four Albion wickets with four successive balls.

NURSES CLOSE CONVENTION

Resolutions Passed and Dominion Officers Elected Saturday in St. John

Canadian Press
St. John, N.B., June 27.—Resolutions regarding public health, academic qualifications for student nurses and other matters were passed at Saturday's concluding session of the biennial convention of the Canadian Nurses' Association, which was held at the Hotel McEwen, St. John, N.B., from June 25 to 27. The association, which has been re-elected by acclamation as president and other officers chosen were: Miss Ruby M. Simpson, Regina, first vice-president; Miss Gertrude M. Bennett, Ottawa, second vice-president; Miss Nora Moore, Toronto, honorary secretary; Miss Margaret Murdoch, St. John, honorary treasurer.

An invitation from Toronto to hold the next meeting in 1934 there was accepted.

One resolution expressed a desire to open negotiations with the General Council of Public Health in England and Wales for the purpose of establishing reciprocity with Canada in registration of trained nurses. The association will try to have public health nurses included in plans for national and international exchange of nurses. A resolution will be addressed to the Minister of Pension and National Health, requesting that a representative from the Canadian Nurses' Association be appointed to the Dominion Council of Health.

Regarding entrance to training schools, it was resolved that schools should set junior matriculation or high school graduation or graduation from a special high school nursing course as the entrance standard.

J.B.A.A. PLANS REGATTA DANCE

As a climax to the N.P.A.A.O. regatta to be held at Lake on Friday and Saturday of this week, the James Bay Athletic Association will stage a dance at the Shrine Auditorium on Saturday evening, commencing at 8:30 o'clock.

At this dance Mayor Leeming, who will be accompanied by Mrs. Leeming, will present cups and shields to the winning crew. The dance arrangements and the entertainment of the visitors are in the hands of the J.B.A.A. dance committee, assisted by the rowing girls of the club, and the affair promises to be a delightful wind-up to the two days' Dominion festivities.

Presbyterian Mission Band's Annual Rally

Presbyterian Mission Bands met at St. Andrew's Church on Saturday afternoon for their annual rally. There was a good attendance, a well-prepared programme and a notable display of work.

Mrs. Sanders, Presbyterian mission band secretary, presided. The scripture reading was taken by Mrs. E. McQueen and the prayer by Mrs. Cotford. The chairman after a few words of welcome and appreciation, introduced Rev. P. S. Goddell, who conveyed the greetings of St. Andrew's Church. His central thought was based on the first and second verses of the sixty-seventh Psalm, "The members of the bands were responsive to the appeal which led them to join the speaker in repeating the chosen verse, and to follow the trend of his thought."

Greetings from Victoria Presbyterian W.M.S. were given by Mrs. J. R. Eldridge, acting for the president, who was absent. Greetings from W.M.S. auxiliaries by Mrs. Macintosh of St. Andrew's, were illustrated by the story of a Scotch boy coming to Canada many years ago. John Goddell, who became one of the first foreign missionaries of the Canadian church, Rev. P. McNeill gave a talk to the children calculated to stimulate and inspire loyalty to the church.

Responding to roll call the various bands present stood in their places, and those not able to attend sent greetings by letters. Mrs. H. Penland voiced the greetings of the provincial W.M.S., of which she is mission band secretary.

The Goforths of St. Andrew's repeated the playlet they had given at their closing meeting, and their secretary, Phyllis Holmes, gave a solo. The Marian McFadden band of St. Paul's sang a pretty song, "Smile." The Willing Helpers of the Chinese church sang in English. "We are a band of two of the little girls, Emma Wong and Victoria Lum, played a duet very nicely. The Rosalind Goforth band of the Gorge Church sang a song, "The Builders." Nona Penland gave a piano solo. The "Busy Bees" of Erskine Church were represented by Peggy Dyke, who played a piano solo. All the young musicians deserve praise. The two hymns sung were "When Mothers of Salem" and "Tell Me the Stories of Jesus."

Rev. Mr. Luitrell dismissed the meeting with the benediction.

Flowers, vegetables, fruit and candies will be obtainable at the stalls.

Your Baby and Mine

By MYRTLE MEYER ELDRED

A problem is often ignored by the parent as long as it is not too inconvenient for her. The moment it becomes "bothersome" she wants to eradicate it.

The following problem has been timely for the last eighteen months. At one year of age any child who has had experience in cup feeding can dispense with bottles entirely, but in this case the retention of bottles has been to a major bad habit and is no different from the child's using a pacifier or sucking her thumb in the middle of the night. They are similar habits.

WAKES FOR BOTTLE

"I have a daughter two and half years old who still has to have her bottle when she goes to sleep," bewails Mrs. H. P. "She wakes up about once or twice at night and wants it refilled. Can you tell me what I can do to make her stop wanting her bottle? She does not take the bottle all day long, but only at night. We are planning a trip this summer and it will be a great bother getting up with her at night."

The only valid excuse for wanting to break this habit is that it is definitely bad for the child. Your child needs no feeding at night, and certainly does not need a bottle. It is hard for mothers to recognize that physical and mental development go hand in hand, and that the child cannot leave infancy behind. Money as she retains any purely infantile habits.

DEVELOPMENT

To develop physically she must learn more advanced habits of eating and drinking, and to develop mentally she must embrace a new independence in eating, not being enslaved by the sensory pleasure that is part of any sucking habit. Such development insures that the child is definitely through with infancy and well on the road to childhood.

Take the bottles away and have no more of them in the house. Let the child see you destroy them. I would be very critical of your feeding programme. The child will naturally sleep through the night if the daytime feedings have been sufficient to meet her needs. The schedule of naps may need alteration to keep pace with her age and growth. She may be sleeping too long in the afternoon to make a restful sleep at night possible.

MAKE CHANGES

Send me a self-addressed, stamped envelope for my leaflet, "Week's Menu from Two to Four Years" and "Schedule for the Pre-school Child." You may find, by comparing the child's schedule and feeding with the proper one for her age, that there are some things which can be changed and improved.

With a changed schedule and diet you should expect that the child will not wake at night. A comfortable bed, light covers or no covers at all if it is hot, and plenty of fresh air circulating in the room are all conducive to deep sleep.

This is not a case for discipline. Just recognize that the bottle habit must no longer be allowed indulgence. If she does wake in the night, offer a drink of water.

Chapter Arranges Garden Party

Tuesday, July 5, has been chosen as the date of the garden party which the Sir Matthew Baillie Begbie Chapter I.O.D.E. will hold at the home of Mrs. R. W. Mayher, 2551 Beach Drive, instead of Wednesday, July 6, as previously arranged. At the recent meeting of the chapter conveners were chosen as follows: Mrs. L. H. Hardie, who will be in charge of tea; Mrs. H. E. Murray, clock golf, and Mrs. G. Downes, house-plant; while competitions will be managed by Mrs. A. J. Casarache and Mrs. T. Brown; candy stall, Mrs. T. E. Wood; ice cream, Mrs. Morrison and Mrs. K. Chadwick; fortune telling will be given by Miss Cook and dances by pupils of Miss Violet Fowkes. Monday and Mrs. P. R. Moore will be at the gate. The chapter decided to donate the sum of $10 to child welfare. The next meeting will be held at headquarters on Friday, September 16, at 2:30 o'clock.

AUNT HET

By ROBERT QUILLLEN

Longchamps, France, June 27.—What looks like a revolution to gladden the spirits of milliners was presaged by a sprinkling of hats worn with some of the smartest costumes in the style parade at the races Saturday.

More than one fashionable Parisienne gazed from beneath sweeping velvets, brims, front trimmed, at the track where Strip the Willow dashed away with the coveted Grand Prix, and winner's share of an 800,000 franc purse.

Buckram and wire frames are coming back, in the ornate mode of two decades past. So salesgirls soon may be cooing to madams about "creations" again. The milliner's disappearing art, since advent of the beret and sport felt, is due for a boom.

Mme. Josef LeBrun, France's first lady, had pink roses on her black hat. Her dress was black chiffon.

The skirt level of the smart throngs was lowered a trifle below last year's and the femininity trend still seems on the upgrade.

Purple, lime green and red were frequent colors, although many fashionables chose the ultra-smart gray of beige, combined with some brilliant color note. A gray crepe frock, with cerise gloves and hat, and a beige dress with nasturtium orange velvet hat were examples.

Black velvet is an important style note. It trimmed many pale pink and blue wool spectator sport suits whose wearers strolled on the parade.

Mrs. Sarah Fearn, Northfield, Passes

Nanaimo, June 27.—Mrs. Sarah Fearn, seventy-five, widow of the late Hugh Fearn, died at Northfield yesterday. She was a pioneer resident, having resided at Northfield forty-three years. She is survived by one son, William, at home; one brother, George Jackson, Northfield, and four sisters. Mrs. F. Rowther, Victoria, is a sister.

SEVERS LONG ASSOCIATION WITH VICTORIA

MRS. GIDEON HICKS

who, with her two daughters, Beatrice and Gertrude, left this afternoon for Vancouver, where they will join Mr. Hicks and make their future home. By their departure Mr. and Mrs. Hicks end a period of thirty-five years' residence in Victoria, their going occasioning very sincere regret in musical circles and among the host of personal friends they have made here. Both Mr. and Mrs. Hicks, as well as their daughters, have made a very big contribution to the musical history of Victoria, Mrs. Hicks being for many years an officer of the former Ladies' Musical Club and an active member of the Victoria Musical Art Society, and until recent years her beautiful contralto voice was frequently heard on the local concert platform. She is also a gifted elocutionist and many will remember her very artistic performance in her recital of "Enoch Arden" for the Musical Art Society last year. Mr. Hicks is well known throughout the Pacific northwest for his fine oratorio work, while the Misses Beatrice and Gertrude Hicks, as well as Mr. Nelson Hicks, son of Mr. and Mrs. Hicks, have ably sustained the family's high musical reputation.

SISTER MARY'S KITCHEN

MELONS APPEAR IN MANY NEW VARIETIES

By SISTER MARY

Not so many years ago muskmelons and watermelons were the only melons commonly known and marketed throughout the country, but with modern shipping facilities making it possible to send fruit to the "far corners of the map," the housekeeper finds she must know her melons when she goes to market. No fruit is harder to select, because there is such a large family of them and they all have their peculiar characteristics.

Regardless of variety, all melons must have heat before they can reach maturity, so the weather conditions throughout the country have much to do with their quality. Melons must be ripe and they must mature on the vines. They must ripen after picking without harming the flavor, providing full growth was allowed before harvesting.

The time-honored practice of thumping the watermelons with the fingers is a reliable test. A full grown, ripe melon has a dull, muffled sound when thumped, while a green melon rings with a metallic sharpness. There's a thin, film-like covering all over the surface of a watermelon. When the melon is ripe this covering will peel off like dry wax if the thumb nail is drawn across it.

The color of the underside should be noticed. Pale yellow, lemon or warm ivory colors with a sort of warty roughness indicate ripeness. A warm yellowish green rather than a bright clear green on the top is desirable. There's a thin, film-like covering all over the surface of a watermelon. When the melon is ripe this covering will peel off like dry wax if the thumb nail is drawn across it.

AVOID MIS-SHAPEN MELONS

Round or long melons are equally good, but those which are mis-shapen should be avoided. Large melons are more desirable than small ones, but a heavy small melon is preferable to a light-weight large one.

The color of the seeds in watermelons has little to do with the maturity of a melon since the seeds naturally range from white to brown and black.

Over-ripe melons are as undesirable as immature ones, but they can usually be detected by softness when the melon is pressed with the thumb and by the dull appearance of the rind. In watermelons many yellow veins through the green surface is an indication of over-ripeness.

Most persons know the sweet, refreshing flavor of the honeydew melon. Its crisp watery texture and its attractive color, shading from a clear tender green to almost white, make it particularly inviting for hot summer days. They are served at almost any meal of the day—icy cold as a breakfast fruit or light dessert, cut in cubes and chilled in a tart fruit juice as an appetizer, or combined with sections of orange and slices of pineapple they make a perfect summer dinner salad. When shopping for these melons select those of an evenly colored creamy-white or pale-green rind and a pleasantly fragrant aroma.

VARIETIES ARE MANY

The honeyball melon, which made its debut a few years ago, is very much like the honeydew. It has a sweeter flavor and is of a more melting texture, but is used and served the same as the honeydew. In shape it is perfectly round. Its rind is an evenly colored pale yellow and is closely netted. The same pleasing fragrance indicates a good melon.

The casaba melon has a deeply furrowed, very rough rind. It has a thick meat, not quite so sweet and less watery than the honey melons. Its color is of deep cream to golden and its texture is smooth and firm.

Persian melons are natives of the west and are rich and flavorful. Their color is vivid, of a rich salmon pink. While they are deliciously juicy they are not as watery and their texture is firm and crisp. The rind is netted much like the cantaloupe but the shape of the melon itself is flat at the ends rather than pointed, as most cantaloupes are.

Melons are ideal warm-weather fare because their water content makes them cooling and delightful. They are so easy to serve that they are a boon to the cook and if used in variety they don't become monotonous.

Sprigs of mint, sections of lemon, orange and lime are often used with honeydew, honeyball and casaba melone to emphasize their delicacy of flavor.

Never serve ice over a cut melon. Chill the fruit thoroughly before cutting and serve on a bed of ice if you will, but when ice is put over the surface of a melon the delicate flavor is decidedly injured.

SOCIAL, PERSONAL AND HOME INTERESTS

LEAP YEAR BRIDE

CHAPTER III

Some of the names above the mail boxes tilted tipsily so that they were difficult to read. Others lacked identification of any sort. Cherry searched the list but nowhere could she find the name "Baker." It must be there, though. "Baker" was what Dan had said. Unless he'd found the place he'd have come back.

But there was no such name on the list of tenants of the apartment.

The girl turned uncertainly. The exterior of the building had proven deceptive. The small square entrance way in which she stood was soiled and down-at-heel. Brown walls with hideous panels of scenic wallpaper on either side. Finger marks smudging the woodwork. The simulated tile floor in need of soap and water.

What should she do? Cherry's fears were rising. It was at that instant that a grumpy urchin, capless and wearing a sweater too large for him, appeared on the other side of the outer door, and stared at the girl through the glass panel.

She drew back the door. "Do you know if some people named Baker live here?" she asked.

The urchin nodded. Traces of some sticky stuff showed on his cheeks. The blue stare of impassive eyes regarded her, but the child did not speak.

"Can you tell me where to find them?"

The urchin pointed a sticky finger to the door at the left. Through the glass portion of the door a short flight of stairs was revealed. Evidently it led to a hall.

Somehow the child reassured Cherry. It couldn't be such a dreadful place if there were children about. Timidly she put a hand on the door. It opened. She went up the steps gingerly and found herself in a long passage. There was a dim yellow light half way down the hall. Its meagre rays showed doors on either side—probably a dozen of them. Gray daylight filtered through a window on the landing where the stairs turned.

The thing to do now would be to knock at one of these doors and ask where the Bakers lived.

Cherry took two steps forward—and drew back in dismay. There were voices, men's voices, raised and angry, behind the nearest door on the right.

The voices continued. One of them grew louder than the others. Oh, there was no doubt that the men were angry. Suddenly Cherry heard the clatter of a key turning in a lock. They were coming!

In panic, blindly, the girl ran up the stairs and turned at the landing. She heard the door open below and the men came out. Breathless, she flattened herself against the wall.

Now they were gone, but she dared not go down. Stealthily Cherry crept up the stairs to the second floor. She must find Dan! She must find Dan!

Marching all her courage, Cherry stepped forward. She raised a hand and knocked at the door before her.

She could never remember the rest. The deafening roar of a gun's report, the sharp stinging sensation in her arm, her own shriek—they seemed all to have happened at once.

Out of the darkness she was able, vaguely, to hear voices. One that was familiar. A pleasant voice. Whose was it? Cherry opened her eyes.

"That's the girl, Cherry! Feeling better now?"

Why, it was Dan who was bending over her! He seemed to have his arm about her.

"Dan—that happened?"

"Never mind about that now. Here, see if you can drink this."

He held a glass to her lips. It was sharp, biting stuff that stung her throat, but she drank it. Dan's face looked worried. What was the matter? Suddenly Cherry began to remember things.

That drive down strange streets—Inez somebody whom Dan must find—waiting outside in the car—Cherry felt a knife-like twinge of pain in her left arm. A little muddled escaped her lips. Then she saw that the arm was bandaged and there were blotches of red on the white cloth. Fright widened her eyes.

"Dan?" she began, but was interrupted.

"Listen, honey, do you think you can stand up if I put my arm around you? We want to get you to a doctor. Here, let's see if you can make it!"

She was lying on a davenport in a room she had never seen before. Several women, a half-grown girl, the grimy urchin she had seen downstairs and two men. It was not an attractive room and they were not attractive faces. Her arm ached.

"I'll help you," Dan prompted.

Obediently she tried to rise. The throbbing pain made her awkward. Phillips lifted her, carefully and gently. When she was on her feet she leaned against him.

"I can make it!" she said. The girl's voice was almost a whisper. She took a step unsteadily.

"Wait—here's your coat."

They managed to get it around her, one arm in its sleeve and the other hanging loose. One of the women helped Dan. Then, slowly and painfully, they made for the door.

It had been one of the rooms on the second floor in which Cherry had found herself. They reached the hall. There Phillips picked the girl up and carried her in his arms down the stairs. Not until they had reached the entrance way did he set her down.

"Arm hurt much now?" he asked.

"It's pretty sore," she admitted.

"Was it a gun that went off?" Phillips nodded. "Might have been a look-out or just some crazy drunk. Whoever it was, it was gone when I got there. The main thing, child, is to get you to a doctor's office."

They left the building. Suddenly Phillips brushed around the girl and a little in front of her. "Stay close to me!" he murmured. "And let me do the talking."

Not six yards away, coming toward them, was a blue-coated officer and a youth.

"Just a minute there!" the policeman called. Dan and Cherry halted.

"Do you live in this building?" the policeman demanded.

"No."

"Then what have you been doing there?"

"Why, officer, we're looking for an apartment. Stopped to see if there were any for rent, but we didn't like the looks of the place."

"Oh, you didn't? Hear any commotion while you were in there?"

"No, sir."

"Why, yes, I'm sure we didn't hear anything. Is something wrong? Has anything happened?"

Phillips' tone and manner were completely convincing. With a shrug and noncommittal exclamation, the policeman dismissed them and entered the building, followed by his companion.

Neither Cherry nor Phillips gave the younger man a second glance. They hurried across the street to the roadster. As Dan was starting the engine the girl said, "Oh, Dan—my purse!"

"Can't go back now," he told her. "Not with that flat-foot creel! After I get to a doctor's office I'll come back for it."

Cherry's arm burned painfully. Two great tear drops, unbidden, slid down her cheek. Firmly she gripped her teeth, resolving not to cry out.

Twice Dan's eyes left the road to catch side-long glimpses of the girl's white face. Each time he increased the roadster's speed. Ten minutes later he was ushering her into a physician's office.

"It's her left arm," he told the doctor. "Gun went off accidentally. We tried to stop the bleeding with a tourniquet."

For another ten minutes there was activity—tense and efficient—in the small office. Cherry's courage forsook her as the wound was probed and cleaned. The bullet had torn the flesh of her upper arm in an ugly, jagged line but had not lodged there. Weak from fright and from loss of

How Popular Name
Brought Star Fame
By ROBERT GRANDON

Ran into Florence Lawrence the other day on the street. . . . Some of you oldtimers may remember her. She was the original "Biograph Girl" . . . and chatting with her brought to mind the subject of the trick names for screen stars.

"I came by my name honestly, Bob," Florence said. "You remember, companies refused to give out names in those days. . . . So when I started to play leads, the fans referred to me as 'The Biograph Girl' . . . and when I left the company, Mary Pickford inherited the title."

"And another Florence was the Vitaphone Girl," I said. "Florence Turner. Popularity made names then. . . . Now oftentimes, names make popularity."

"Not in the case of Mary Pickford, of course, who became 'America's Sweetheart' when the slyer Grauman newspaperman and member of Howard Hughes's staff, coined the title to describe her hair."

Jackie Coogan got "The Kid" from playing the part with Charlie Chaplin.

Others have set out deliberately to make stars popper through names. Eleanor Glyn started the fashion when she discovered that Clara Bow had "it". Arch Reeve, a studio official, took it up, and Clara became famous as a hot baby. . . . Jean Harlow attained the heights as "The Platinum Blonde" when Lincoln Quarberg, former newspaperman and member of Howard Hughes's staff, coined the title to describe her hair.

Women's Ability
To Kid
Themselves

Dorothy Dix

Finds Its Consolation
Price
To Women

A Woman's Gift of Self-hypnotism Is a Blessed Faculty That Enables Her to See Herself, Her Husband and Her Children as She Would Like Them to Be, Instead of as They Appear to Others

THE MOST AMAZING THING about women is the ability they have to kid themselves into believing anything that they want to believe. Every woman possesses the gift of self-hypnotism and can put herself into a trance as will in which she can see herself and the world as she desires to behold them.

As a proof of this you have only to take the way women lie about their age. A noble, Christian lady, who runs the church and is a power of righteousness in the community and who otherwise is Versacious Jane, will calmly cast twenty birthdays into the discard because she has convinced herself that she still looks like a debutante.

When you see a stout, elderly woman dolled up in flapper clothes and rolling her eyes at men and hisping baby-talk to them, you feel like crying out in the slang of the day: "Oh, for Heaven's sake, be your age!" But she is being her age the way she sees herself, for she has kidded herself into believing that she still looks like an itty-bitty cute girlie.

Another illustration of the miraculous power women have to pull the wool over their eyes is that no woman ever gets a close-up on herself, or a line on her defects. She always sees herself glorified and never suspects that the general public isn't as enraptured with the picture as she is herself.

A woman will go around with hair the color of strawberry jam complacently believing that she has every one fooled into thinking she was born with Titian locks. There are 10,000 mirrors on every side and yet she will plaster her mouth with lipstick until it looks like a gory gash across her face. And no stout woman ever beholds another stout woman without thinking: "Thank goodness, I'm not fat and haven't lost my figure."

Any woman, no matter how homely she is or how little appeal she has for men, can kid herself into the belief that she is a vamp who puts Cleopatra and all the remainder of the sirens into the also-ran class. Plenty of women who, you would think, might travel from here to Timbuctoo without any man glancing at them except with pity, will tell you that they cannot venture out beyond their own doorsteps without being accosted by strange men.

There is never a day that I don't get a letter from some woman saying that she knows a certain man is wildly, passionately in love with her. He has never asked her to marry him or mentioned the state of his affections to her, but she knows he is in love with her because he comes and eats Sunday dinner with her, or because of the look in his eyes. She never stops to consider that it may be love of good food and her mother's cooking and not matrimonial intentions that bring the man to her house and that all any woman ever sees in a man's eyes is just the reflection of her own desire.

The angelic ability that so many wives have to forgive their philandering husbands and to pity them instead of divorcing them is due also to this beneficent power women have of kidding themselves into believing what they want to believe. The wife wants to believe that her husband still loves her and prefers her to all other women, and so she convinces herself that her husband was a poor, unsophisticated, innocent little lamb who was stolen out of the domestic fold by a female wolf in sheep's clothing.

Husband may be an elderly Lothario and the girl he has been stepping out with may be a sixteen-year-old flapper, but nevertheless wife is sure he wasn't in the least to blame, and that he was the victim of the arts and wiles of a seductive woman who cast evil spells that no man could resist. Also, wife convinces herself that when husband says that he will never look at another fluttering petticoat again, he means it and will keep his promise, and so many a marriage is kept from going on the rocks.

Women's ability to kid themselves, however, finds its most glorious expression when they come to dealing with their children. For then, indeed, does it become a God-given talent that leaves us awing and wondering at its scope and power. For Nature has wisely ordained that no mother shall see her children as they actually are, but only as she wants them to be. Always she beholds them as beautiful swans. Never as ugly ducklings.

Mary may be afflicted with curly hair and a snub nose and pale eyes and a lumpy figure. Mother wonders if she would film well and if she wouldn't knock Greta Garbo off the screen if she went into the movies. Sally may be dumb as an oyster. Mother is convinced that she is one of those great silent geniuses. John may be stupid and uncouth. Mother never sees it. She beholds in him only originality and force.

And no matter how selfish and impudent and inconsiderate to her her children are, or how wild and dissipated, mother kids herself into believing that they love her in spite of the way they treat her, and that some day they will turn into fine men and women.

Wonderful is the ability women have to kid themselves. Maybe it is God's consolation-price to them for being women.

The Beginning of Names

I—IN ANCIENT TIMES

"What is your name?" That question is often asked of grown folks; and when we start to talk with a small child, we are very likely to ask him to tell us his name. One little girl was asked her name and she replied, "My name is Mary Don't." We may guess that the child's mother was in the habit of telling her not to do this and not to do that.

Heads and hats of ancient Greeks. These men had only one name apiece.

In ancient times, it was the common custom for a person to have only one name. The Greeks spoke of "Socrates." If you had asked them for "the other name" of the famous thinker, they would not have known what you meant. It was the same with Plato and Aristotle and thousands of other Greeks. Jews of olden times had only one name apiece. We read in the Bible about Abraham, Isaac and David, but their family names are not given to us—because they did not have family names such as we have.

The name "Isaac" meant "laughter" in the Hebrew tongue, and was given because there was laughter and rejoicing at the time of his birth. The name "Jacob" means "supplanter," or "one who takes the place of another." The Romans started a system of giving a person more than one name. Usually a Roman had three names—the first being a personal name, the second a clan name, and the third a family name. One famous Roman was known as "Gaius Julius Caesar." His first name meant "Joyful," and his second name meant "of the Clan Julia." The clan name of Gaius Julius Caesar has been kept in the name of one of our months—July, which came from Julius. The name Caesar was pronounced like "kaiser" by the Romans, and it was used as a title by the rulers of the German and Austro-Hungarian empires which existed before the World War.

Among the third names of Romans were nicknames such as Nasus, meaning Long-nosed, and Graculus, meaning Fat. As time passed, the nicknames of Romans came to be used as family names.

Benefic aspects rule strongly to-day, according to astrology. It is a day in which to use one's best energies in business or the learned profession.

Under this sway workers may be impatient since it is their part to await the materialization of large projects. Astrologers foresee many demands for employees next month.

There is a promising sign for commerce and for ocean travel. Oriental trade is in expansion, the stars prophesy.

Oil and oil by-products are under a rule making for increase in consumption and slight rise in prices, if the stars are watchful.

Promoters and managers of important enterprises should profit to-day, for the stars seem to mark an approachable attitude on the part of capitalists.

Candidates for political preferment should find the stimulating and encouraging effects of certain aspects to-day. Optimism should be the prevailing mood.

The evening of this day is especially favorable to the happiness of women. It is most likely to mark events romantic as well as profitable intellectually.

ASK INQUIRY INTO PENSIONS

Canadian Press

Sudbury, Ont., June 27.—Taking strong issue with published reports alleging existence of "ramifications of frauds" in connection with pensions, Col. F. J. Pickering of Toronto, president of the Ontario command of the Canadian Legion, declared Saturday the impression was thereby given many men had secured pensions by misrepresentation.

He told district members of the Legion the fraud allegations had been made public "in a manner calculated to bring into disrepute ex-soldier citizens and their organizations."

Col. Pickering expressed the desire that "the whole system of pensions be investigated by the special committee to be appointed by the government."

"QUEENSWOOD" IS SCENE OF FETE TO AID CHURCH

Saturday at the home of Lieut. Colonel and Mrs. A. A. Shariand, "Queenswood House," a most successful garden fete was held in aid of St. Luke's Church. The gardens formed a beautiful background for the 800 guests who attended and the sum of $438 was realized to increase the church funds. A special feature of the fete was the dancing of Miss Dorothy Bird, a talented young Victorian who has recently returned from New York, and who appeared in modern and interpretive numbers, accompanied by Miss White. Colonel H. T. Goodland acted as general convener, and the visitors were welcomed by Rev. S. Ryall and Mrs. Ryall, Colonel Phillips and Major and Mrs. Hardinge assisting. Mrs. I. C. Lytton was convener of the tea arrangements, assisted by Mrs. Trigg and Mrs. E. Stewart, and candy was sold by Mrs. H. T. Goodland and Mrs. H. B. Darnell. Miss Beale and Mrs. A. W. R. Wilby sold ice cream and strawberries, while the sale of home products was in charge of Mr. and Mrs. Renouf and Mrs. A. T. House. Mrs. A. Shariand and Miss Vera Shariand had charge of the bran tub and the "treasure hunt," both of which were popular attractions. There was miniature golf, a coconut shy and fortune-telling, which found many who were eager to peer into the future. G. H. Green's Boys' Band played during the afternoon and Boy Scouts were of great help to those arranging the affair.

Robert Connell Suggests to Gyro Club Members They Might Be Preserved

Millions of Years Ago Climatic Conditions Here Were More Tropical

"Victoria possesses some remarkable and interesting remains of the glacial period, and I think something might be done to preserve them as a tourist attraction and for ourselves," Robert Connell, well-known Vancouver Island naturalist told members of the Gyro Club at their luncheon at the Empress Hotel to-day when speaking on early climatic conditions on the Island.

MILLIONS OF YEARS AGO

The weather millions of years ago was far different from what it is to-day, Mr. Connell said. At one time the Pacific Ocean spread as far as India on one side, and to the foothills of the Rockies on the other, the speaker said, in mentioning the existence of corals at Cowichan Bay. These corals were reef builders, and belonged to the same family as the larger corals found in the tropics. These corals must have lived in water that was salt and low, and had a mean temperature of sixty-eight degrees. The corals at Cowichan are really well preserved, the speaker said. The rocks at Cowichan have long been extinct, and on Vancouver Island are known only by the remains of two teeth found. But these teeth match skeletons and other parts found elsewhere.

Long before there were many people on Vancouver Island, which was known because of its coal beds, which were associated with fossils, some of which were plants and some animals.

Mr. Connell also spoke of the fossils of Muir Creek and the interesting specimens of rocks there. In a geographical magazine published recently in Chicago a picture of one of the beaches of Victoria was shown to illustrate a district left by a glacial age, the speaker said.

CHINESE FACE DRUG CHARGES

Six Chinese appeared before Magistrate George Jay this morning on drug charges as a result of Royal Canadian Mounted Police activities on Saturday. Five of the men were taken in a raid by Corporal M. T. Berger on the Chinese bunkhouse of a cannery at Esquimalt.

Chan Sam, who pleaded guilty to a charge of smoking opium, was fined $50 and $2.50 costs, or two months. On a charge of possession of opium he was remanded to Thursday.

Lee Wah Hon, Soto Chu and Lum Tong were each fined $50 and $2.50 costs or two months when they pleaded guilty to being inmates of a place to which persons resort for smoking opium. Fung Chow Jack pleaded guilty to a similar charge and was remanded to Thursday.

Lum Quan Tin was charged with possession of opium in Shelburne Street premises. He was remanded without plea to Thursday in Saanich court. Corporal Berger informed the court that four decks of opium were involved.

FUNERAL WEDNESDAY

The death occurred on Saturday at the Jubilee Hospital of Henry Powell, aged forty-one years. A native of England and a resident of Victoria for the past ten years, he is survived by relatives in England.

The remains are resting at Thomson & Fetterly's Funeral Home, from where the funeral will take place on Wednesday afternoon at 2.30 o'clock. Interment will be in Ross Bay Cemetery.

TEACHER SUES IN $3,000 LIBEL

H. McCleary Claims Confidential Rating Caused School Board to Turn Him Down

J. S. Atkinson of Toronto, Defendant, Taking Stand This Afternoon

Claiming that J. S. Atkinson of Toronto, through the private and confidential ratings of the Canadian Bureau for the Advancement of Music in Canada, had "played havoc with my reputation as a music teacher," Henry McCleary, associate of the Royal Academy of Music and Trinity College, London, and bearing the degree letters of many other musical institutions, to-day took the stand before Mr. Justice Murphy in the Supreme Court in his $3,000 libel suit against Mr. Atkinson.

McCleary testified that he was without justification turned down by the Victoria School Board for appointment as a music teacher in the Victoria schools as a result of a rating report submitted by Mr. Atkinson to George H. Deane, municipal inspector of schools.

"This report," Mr. McCleary testified, "placed me in third class B. But there has never been any examination."

Questioned in the box by his counsel, Harold A. Beckwith, Mr. McCleary told how he had first taken up his specialty of group piano teaching as far back as 1904, and had conducted classes with outstanding success in Edmonton and other places before coming to Victoria.

Among the noted teachers under whom he studied and took his degrees were William Shakespeare and the organist of Liverpool Cathedral. After coming to Victoria he became properly qualified for teaching in the schools of the province by taking the provincial department, for which he was awarded a certificate.

"When I saw by the papers the list of the school board's appointments, I learned that Mr. Atkinson, who obtained his rating report, was not appointed," Mr. McCleary went on. He then explained that as a result of what he learned he had felt there was no other course by which his long-standing and high reputation could be safeguarded and vindicated but by proceeding against Mr. Atkinson.

Considerable time was taken up with the comparative ratings of a group of the best-known music teachers of the province, including Mr. Atkinson, Mr. O. O. Campbell, Chas. Wade, Ivy Archer, Katharine A. Brown, Marion McGovern and Helen Simpson.

Crow Minus Lower Bill Juggles Food

Intelligent Bird, Handicapped by Injured Beak, Performs Stunts on Empress Lawns, to Provide His Daily Meal Ticket

Ingenuity plus dexterity is keeping life in a glossy black-coated, terribly handicapped crow, which may be seen daily doing circus stunts on the Empress Hotel lawns.

Minus the use of its lower bill, which hangs limply from the roof of its mouth, this intelligent crow is making quite a reputation for himself and incidentally filling his stomach on the green sward facing the Causeway.

The bird is to be seen there every day and is unconcerned by the crowds that pass by within a few yards of his adopted home.

How he lost his lower bill, no one seems to know. But the crow realizes there is food for the taking in the vicinity, but the difficulty is to pick it up.

He determinedly drives the spike of his top bill through a tempting piece of bread, hops a few feet away, and then goes through a series of contortions in an effort to get the morsel into his crop.

Pushing his beak out of the food, the crow maintains a firm hold with his claws, lowers its head sideways to the ground and gathers it up. If this plan does not work satisfactorily, he flips it into the air and neatly catches the food.

The injured crow evidently believes everybody around on the Empress Hotel lawns, for he displays no fear and goes through his meal-time performances without moving out of range.

The accident must have happened some time ago, for the hanging lower bill appears to be withered.

Whatever his handicap, life is good to the crow and he is making the best of his misfortune.

Mr. McCleary went on. He then explained that as a result of what he learned he had felt there was no other course by which his long-standing and high reputation could be safeguarded and vindicated but by proceeding against Mr. Atkinson.

CONSIDER ROAD INTO PLATEAU

Possibility of Building Toll Road Into Scenic Up-island Area Broached

Support of a movement to build a special toll road into the Forbidden Plateau, will be considered by a committee of three directors of the Chamber of Commerce as the result of a resolution passed by the directors at their luncheon in the Union Club to-day.

The move was broached in a letter from C. B. Wood, municipal clerk of Courtenay, and former official of the Associated Boards of Trade of Vancouver Island. Mr. Wood said he was working on a scheme to have the road built into the plateau and to charge a small toll for its use. He asked the chamber to co-operate with him in securing the R. C. N. Railway a road allowance. If that were forthcoming, he hoped to start work on the road during the year, he said.

Rev. Montague W. J. Bruce voted against the construction of the road. Half the charm of the plateau lay in its inaccessibility.

D. C. Campbell and Harco Husband both remarked that if the plateau were to be made a money-making tourist resort it would have to be opened.

Alderman W. T. Straith moved a committee of three be appointed to go into the matter with Mr. Wood and to report back to the chamber with details of the proposition.

It was mentioned the plateau was entirely Canadian Pacific land.

Trading Inertia At Winnipeg Cause of Fractional Losses

Canadian Press
Winnipeg, June 27.—Weighted down by sheer trader indifference, the Winnipeg wheat market nosed fractionally lower today despite foreign news that might have been construed as at least moderately bullish. At the close futures prices were off 1/4 to 1/2 cent a bushel.

The few traders who took an active interest in the market worked on the selling side except for a brief time at midday when values were boosted over Saturday's closing figures. The advance was sufficient to wipe out early losses, but easily fell prey to more liquidation in the last hour.

The July future finished 1/2 cent lower at 53 1/2 cents; October 1/4 to 1/2 cent lower at 56 1/2; and December 1/4 lower at 57 1/2.

Rains that delayed harvest in the United States winter wheat area and a show of strength in the Liverpool market were unheeded by traders who preferred to note the almost total absence of exports from this continent over the week-end and the drooping attitude of the stock markets.

Demand for cash wheat was indifferent and offerings were light. Spreads on most grades were firm at the start, but eased fractionally at the finish.

Only a few cars of barley and rye were sold for export on the coast grain market. Values in all commodities were easier.

To-day's Grain Markets

WINNIPEG

(By Logan & Bryan)

Winnipeg, June 27.—Wheat continued dull and featureless. Early prices were 1/4 to 1/2 cent higher than the close on Saturday, when there were some buying orders coming in from Chicago, while a little local support was also in evidence.

However, there was a lack of export business, sales over the week-end being almost nil, just a few loads of Manitoba being worked by seaboard buyers. There was very little pressure on the market, but the early upturn was not held, prices sinking to about 1/2 cent under the previous close and getting up against the daily tide, the support from which apparently checked further losses.

There is also a feeling that our July will receive good support at 53 1/2 and this brings in a little local buying when prices get down close to that figure.

There was very little going on in the cash market, the demand being very poor. Spreads were mostly unchanged, but some of the principal grades were showing a tendency to be a little easier.

Rains or showers were fairly general in Saskatchewan and Alberta and the western areas of Manitoba. Showers were also received south of the border and spring wheat conditions continue very favorable and without any serious damage from rust or frost, there does not appear to be much to worry about, but insects have taken some toll.

The Canadian visible increased 7,730,000 bushels, while the U.S. visible decreased 1,638,000 bushels. Country marketings of wheat in the west on Saturday were 437,000 bushels, against 293,000 a year ago.

Winnipeg closed 1/4 to 1/2 cent lower.

Coarse grains: These markets were extremely quiet today. No export business could be uncovered, while domestic demand was very thin. While offerings were not pressing to any extent, there was a little scattered liquidation following a break in corn.

Oats closed 1/4 to 1/2 cent lower, barley 1/4 to 1/2 cent lower, rye 1/4 to 1/2 cent lower, flax 1/4 to 1/2 cent lower.

Liverpool due 1/4 to 1/2 cent lower on Winnipeg.

JOURNALISTS GO TO NEWCASTLE

Picnic at Gulf Resort For Newspapermen of Vancouver and Victoria

Journalists of Victoria and Vancouver met at Newcastle Island, just outside Nanaimo, yesterday for a joint picnic on the famous golf playground.

Newcastle is rapidly becoming known as Nanaimo's picnic centre, and the opening day of the season found all facilities greatly taxed to accommodate the crowds coming by ferry from the mining town as well as those from other points.

The outing for newspapermen was staged by the B.C. Institute of Journalists. The party from Victoria left on the morning E. and N. train, arriving at Nanaimo at 12:15 o'clock and transferred to the ferry Alverda for the brief, but pleasant, trip across Nanaimo Harbor. The Vancouver contingent went direct by boat from the Terminal City.

OUTDOOR MEAL
An al fresco meal on the tables provided by the Canadian Pacific Railway Company which operates the playground, swimming in the refreshing waters surrounding the island, and tramping through the beautiful woodland scenery made an enjoyable afternoon for the visitors. The Victoria party returned by the 5 o'clock train from Nanaimo.

Although its main appeal at present is to the people of Nanaimo and nearby districts Newcastle bids fair to become one of the most popular picnic resorts on the B.C. Coast. All facilities for serving an outdoor meal are provided gratis, including tables, benches and hot water, the latter being constantly on tap from huge cauldrons distributed about the grounds. An open air checker board, miniature golf and a softball ground are some of the entertainment features, while at the pavilion there is a large dance floor and restaurant.

HUNDREDS BATHING

The warm weather yesterday found hundreds in bathing suits at the two most popular pools. A logged-in pool at the pier, with the diving board, and spring boards makes the swimming attractive, with a bathing house and beach within a hundred yards.

That Dreaded Time of Life

Mrs. Brockbank Tells Why She Recommends Dr. Williams' Pink Pills to Women of 40 to 50

Color and Appetite Returned

"My age was 48—which every woman knows is a critical time of life—when I derived such benefits from Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. My skin and hair were impaired; my skin and hair were pallid; I could not make any headway with my housework. I got discouraged, as tonic after tonic did not better my condition. My sister, a graduate nurse, advised Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. After taking a few boxes my condition greatly improved. My sleep was restful and my natural color and appetite returned."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills rebuild health by creating new blood and increasing the red blood cells, which restore the wasted tissues and revitalize the exhausted system. They remove the cause of run-down or nervous conditions. Try them. At your druggist's in the new protective glass containers. 50c a package. (Adv.)

GOLD CARGO IS CLAIMED

Salvaged Cargo From Sunken Ship Sealed Aboard Artiglio II at Plymouth

Plymouth, Eng., June 27.—Captain J. B. Garth of the salvage vessel Artiglio II was considerably surprised yesterday when he was told his cargo of gold bullion, brought up from the wrecked liner Egypt, was "under arrest."

On reaching Plymouth from the scene of the Egypt's position near Brest the chief preventive officer of the port, acting on instructions from the admiralty marshal, informed Captain Garth the ship's hold must be sealed and the bullion held aboard.

It was understood the action followed a claim filed by Captain Jean Davy, former captain of the tug Irois, for a share in the gold on the ground he was the first to locate the wreck.

The Artiglio II was successful in its

FROM ORIENT

Made Fast Voyage Across North Pacific as Result of Favorable Weather

Ss. President Cleveland Arriving From Orient First Thing To-morrow Morning

The weather on the north Pacific just now is perfect, officers of the Blue Funnel liner Ixion reported on their arrival here this morning from the Orient. Because of the fine weather the Ixion was able to make fast time and so docked nearly two days ahead of schedule. She came alongside the Rithet piers at 8 o'clock and proceeded to Vancouver two hours later. A party of thirty-three Chinese stevedores disembarked from the ship here.

With a good list of passengers, the N.Y.K. motorliner Hye Maru passed Victoria yesterday evening on her way to Vancouver and Seattle from the Orient.

Inbound from ports in the Orient, the American Mail liner President Cleveland will reach the William Head quarantine station to-morrow morning at 6 o'clock. She will be along with the Rithet piers shortly after 7 o'clock and will remain here until 10 o'clock before proceeding to Seattle to terminate her voyage. The President Cleveland is bringing in a large list of passengers this voyage and a big general cargo, including an average parcel for Victoria. She will leave some new link here for transfer to-morrow evening for the line to San Francisco from where it will through the Panama Canal to New York by the Dollar-Liner President Lincoln.

The first large party of summer tourists will be taken out to the Orient on Saturday afternoon by the Canadian Pacific liner Empress of Canada. Many students and teachers off on education visits to Japan and China will sail aboard the ship. On July 16 the Empress of Russia will sail to the Orient with members of the first Overseas Education League's tour to the Orient abroad.

ARCTIC-BOUND TO HONOR PEARY

THE TOTAL BRITISH COLUMBIA SOCKEYE PACK THIS YEAR WILL BE LIGHT, ACCORDING TO A REPORT PLACED SATURDAY IN THE HANDS OF HON. S. L. HOWE, MINISTER OF FISHERIES, BY DR. W. A. CLEMENS, ASSISTANT OF THE MARINE BIOLOGICAL STATION AT NANAIMO. THE CONDITIONS IN THE FRASER RIVER INLET WATERS WILL BE AVERAGE, THE REPORT SHOWS, WITH VERY LIGHT PACKS IN THE SKEENA AND NANA FISHING GROUNDS.

From the spawnings of 1928 it is estimated there will be a pack of 100,000 cases in the Fraser River this season. There will be a fair to moderate pack in Rivers Inlet, but only a small catch from the combined seedings of Babine Lake and Lakelse Lake in the Skeena district. The report recommends extreme care in regard to the Nana River sockeye salmon in that area.

The full text of the lengthy Clemens' report, which is now being studied by Mr. Howe, will be reproduced in the Provincial Fisheries Department report for 1931, which will come from the press at the end of next month. This year the salmon packs for 1932 are being estimated in advance.

Regarding the expected pack on the Fraser River, the report in part says:

"Dealing with the sockeye run to the Fraser River system, the run will be derived largely from the spawning of 1928. In that year an escapement of average extent was recorded for the lower Fraser, and a small one for the upper, by far the most extensive area, in 1924, and in each of the years, 1916, 1920, 1924 and 1928 the packs were approximately 100,000 cases. There is, therefore, no ground for anticipating a larger run in 1932, with a pack greater than 100,000 cases."

On the length of day I was sick. I wouldn't have given up. I told Graham I wouldn't starve to death. I was going to sit down in the snow and rest till the end. I started for the ship and fell when he came near me and suddenly said: "There he is!" I couldn't see him for several minutes, then a great black plane came into sight.

PLANE COMES BACK

"They went over at 7,000 feet, and disappeared. They'll come back," Graham said. "But I didn't believe they'd be seen. Then came the hardest part of the whole ten days. An hour and forty-five minutes of freezing silence before the plane reappeared, landed and disgorged five brave Canadians led by

RETURNS FROM DARING FLIGHT OVER ALASKA

Seattle, June 27.—She shakes hands like a man, but just like a woman raves over the trappings of civilization in one breath and longs for the frozen wastes of Alaska in the next, does Mrs. Edna Christofferson, Portland sportswoman and flier, just "outside" after five months in and near the Arctic.

"I'm homesick for Alaska already," she sighed.

While ventilated sandals, a white polo coat, white turban, white bag and beads of the latest mode were only some of the things she bought in the swift shopping trip after landing from the steamer Victoria Saturday, but she still was in her cozy flying suit as she told of the hardships she endured while they were marooned for ten days of lost sleep by blizzards in search of the furs. They never sighted the Bay of Chimo, but themselves took on a cargo
